WHAT HAPPENED TO THE REINDEER?—The mechanical age has gone too far this time. Imagine a subway car full of Santa Clauses riding to work just like the rest of the big city wage earners. We hope no youngsters wandered into the car. The bearded riders, collectors for the Volunteers of America, were on their way from headquarters in New York to midtown posts for the day's work. (AP Wirephoto).

At Executive Meeting

Recommendations for New Kaysinger Dam Explained

A meeting of the executive committee of the Upper Osage-South Grand Basin was held Friday, Dec. 15, in Clinton, with William B. Fish, chief of the planning division; O. E. Pettijohn, chief of the real estate division; and Eddie Meisburger, all of the Kansas City Division of the Corps of Engineers present to explain the recommendations for Kaysinger Dam.

The Kansas City Division of the Corps of Engineers is recommending that Kaysinger Dam be built at 739.6 foot level, with a permanent reservoir or lake of 1,200,000 acre-feet to be maintained at an approximate elevation of 706.2 feet. The reservoir will reach to above Osceola on the Osage to near Clinton on the South Grand, with arms reaching up the SAC, Weaubleau, Tebo, Deepwater and other tributary streams.

The engineers also recommend that hydroelectric power be installed in the dam at the time it is constructed, with a daily capacity of 100,000 K. W.

Mr. Fish estimated a shore line of the proposed lake would be approximately the same size as the Lake of the Ozarks.

The purchase of the land in fee and flood easements 55,000-60,000 acres of the land would be involved.

Upland impoundments and additional smaller dams and reservoirs back of the Kaysinger Dam are to be studied and recommendations made as funds become available.

In his report Fish estimated that 2,000,000 people a year would visit the area when the dam is completed. If money is made available and at a desirable rate, he said he estimated the dam and reservoir would be completed in about ten years, and that on the basis of their recommendation, the project would cost $140,000,000.

Fish pointed out that the Corps of Engineers, Kansas City Office, recommendation had been forwarded to the Division Office of the Corps of Engineers in Omaha and if approved by that office it will then go to the Rivers and Harbors Division of the Corps of Engineers in Washington. If they approve it they will then recommend it to Congress.

$133 Million in Loans

US Will Go Ahead With Dam Project

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States announced Saturday it will go ahead with its proposed $133 million in loans to help build the Volta Dam and aluminum smelter project in Ghana.

The State Department said President Kennedy's decision was being conveyed by his fact-finder on the project, former steel executive Clarence B. Randall, to left-leaning President Kwame Nkrumah in Accra.

Nkrumah's recent flirtations with Moscow and his tough suppression of opposition at home had touched off an extensive Kennedy administration review this fall after 3½ years of previous negotiations had all but committed Washington to the deal.

Officials said the go-ahead was based on a judgment that American foreign policy has more to gain from U.S. participation than withdrawal, that the project is economical sound and worthwhile, and that enough safeguards have been taken against political and economical hazards.

The United States, Ghana, Britain, the World Bank and private U.S. interests are all joining in the undertaking, which is expected to cost a total of at least $324 million and take more than five years to build.

The $196-million dam project will be the largest of its kind in sub-Saharan Africa. By providing electricity, it is calculated to bring new economic life into much of the West African country, which was a British colony until last year. Proceeds from the $128-million aluminum plant are slated to be enough to pay for both the dam and the smelter.

Officials gave this breakdown of the financing:

U.S. government contribution: $37 million loaned to Ghana for building the dam, at 5½ per cent interest to be repaid in about 19 years; $96 million, loaned to the Volta Aluminum Co., Kaiser Aluminum-Reynolds metal consortium of U.S. aluminum producers in which Kaiser has the principal interest, for building the smelter.

Post Office Expects Big Load Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—If you're planning to mail your Christmas cards and packages Monday, the Post Office knows it.

It has your number.

Based on past experience, the Post Office is expecting on Monday the largest single mail load in history—more than half a billion pieces—as the 1961 Christmas rush hits its peak. Figures show it already is up 2.8 per cent over 1960.

Officials estimate a mail volume of 4 billion pieces—it could be 6 billion, they said—in the Christmas period that began Dec. 15.

The Post Office is braced for the deluge.

And, a spokesman told reporters, barring a blizzard or severe weather or some unexpected surge of mail in a specific spot, "we have every confidence we'll have all the Christmas mail cleaned up by close of business Saturday."

That means all the mail waiting to be delivered in local post offices and doesn't take care of the New Yorker, for instance, who mails Uncle Herbert in Chicago a necktie on Saturday.

No deliveries will be made Sunday, Christmas Eve, or Monday, Christmas Day.

To handle this biggest Christmas spirit ever in the mails, the Post Office is using a new system, which it estimates will save $5 million over the old system.

It means adding about 240,000 extra workers to the regular 580,000-man work force, compared with 293,000 extras last year, and using experienced employees on overtime. It also means once-a-day deliveries.

"This year's 'all-in-one' home delivery will mean an end to the costly arrangements of previous years in which residential neighborhoods would have inexperienced youngsters running over their lawns several times a day delivering a few cards at a time," postal officials said.

Seeks Venezuelan Support

Caracans Cheer Kennedy; Violence Threats Vanish

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Threats of leftist violence vanished amid "Viva Kennedy" cheers in Caracas Saturday as the U.S. president summoned the people of Venezuela to support the Alliance for Progress program of Latin American development.

The warmth of his reception brought a happy smile to President Kennedy and seemed an omen of success in his mission, which spotlights U.S. determination to help this continent and steam the appeal of Communism.

Banners of welcome and U.S. and Venezuelan flags flew above the most massive security precautions ever taken in Venezuela for a visiting chief executive.

With no sign of the incidents that had been feared, Kennedy drove 10 miles into the city, flew by helicopter to projects associated with the aims of the Alliance for Progress, and bespoke for all the Americas.

In his main address of the day he solemnly warned Latin Americans against alien philosophies and repressive dictatorships that take away liberty with promises of economic progress.

The promises are soon forgotten, he said, adding:

"We have seen this in the grim, drab poverty of eastern Europe, in the famines of China and here in our own hemisphere."

That was an apparent reference to Cuba. President Romulo Betancourt, in response, declared Venezuela is ranged in the Western camp by her own decision and will do her part to "impede the expansion of the Sino-Soviet bloc in Latin America."

The 10-year, $20 billion Alliance for Progress links U.S. aid with Latin American self-help and reform.

The President visited two housing and agrarian reform centers, which are samples of the program in Venezuela.

5 Councilmen Say They Will Vote for Primary

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

Time draws near for the city election, and there is discussion pro and con about having a city primary election again. The primary election in recent years was tried as a substitute for caucus meetings and the city convention method used for many years in nominating party candidates.

In the past there was no uniform procedure in the selection of party candidates—that is between the two parties, one using a ward caucus, the other using the precinct caucus. Both however, ended in separate city conventions where final selections of candidates were made.

Under the primary system, both parties must nominate their candidates through election. The candidates must file with the City Clerk for nomination for the office they are seeking, and, if nominated in the primary, run for the office on his party ticket in the election to be held on Tuesday April 3.

A poll of the Council members conducted this weekend indicates there will be a primary election since five members of the council have definitely committed themselves to vote for an ordinance providing for one.

Robert Bader, First Ward, said, when questioned, that county, state and some national elective office holders are nominated by primary election to run in a general election and Sedalia has sufficient population for such an election. "The town is big enough and it gives the people an opportunity to express themselves by voting," Bader said.

E. B. Smith, also of the First Ward, was out of the city and could not be contacted.

George Bryant, Second Ward, stated: "I am definitely in favor of a primary. If the people don't go and vote it's their own fault. It gives everyone a free opportunity to vote, and those who don't vote should not sit back and criticize over the selection of candidates when they don't take part themselves."

R. N. Snavely, Second Ward, when asked how he felt about the primary, replied "I haven't given any thought to it, and do not care to express an opinion at this time. I want a little time to give it some thought."

Lawrence Koeller, Third Ward, said, "I feel the people of my ward want a primary. It is a little rough on the candidate to run twice, but I would vote for a primary because of my people."

E. Glenn Lewis, Third Ward, summed up his opinion: "I have always been in favor of a primary election, and I most certainly will vote to hold one this coming year."

Jack Cunningham, Fourth Ward: "A primary is the only fair way of selecting candidates. It gives those who would like to run an opportunity to place their name before their party and a chance for the party to make the selection by good representation. I am and always have been in favor of a primary election."

Raymond Roberts, Fourth Ward, stated he was opposed to a primary for several reasons. "I have always been opposed to a primary election due to the expense it im-

Five Others Hurt

Airman Is Killed In One-Car Wreck

An Airman at Whiteman Air Force Base was fatally injured about 7:35 o'clock, Saturday night, when the car he was riding in missed a curve and overturned in a ditch. The youth was identified as A/3c John L. Walton, 17, of the Combat Defense Squadron, and his home was given as Augusta, Ga.

Five other Airmen from the base were injured. They were S/Sgt. Clinton Beeks, 25, laceration of an ear, possible internal injuries, and bruises. His condition was such late Saturday night that he was unable to give any information regarding the accident.

A/1c Alvin Wells, 25, who suffered bruises; A/1c Melvin L. Etter, 28, who received lacerations of the scalp and an injury to the left knee; A/3c Morris O. Chandler, 19, who received abrasions of the shoulders.

All of the men were rushed to the Whiteman WAFB Hospital where they were treated. Walton was still alive when he arrived at the hospital but died at 8:55 p.m. from injuries received in the accident.

It was reported the car, 1959 Ford sedan, was driven by Etter and was headed east on Highway 50 about five miles east of Warrensburg where it missed the curve and went along the roadway striking a concrete abutment to a culvert, and turned upside down in a ditch. The location is sometime known as Mayes Curve or "Dead Man's" curve.

The automobile was demolished. It was towed away by the Homer Wilson Service Station wrecker.

Trooper James Happy of the State Highway Patrol investigated the accident. The Trooper happened to be at the Air Police headquarters at the base when word was received by them of the (Please turn to page 13 column 5)

2 Sedalians Charged In Entry Case

A young Sedalian was charged Saturday morning in Magistrate Court in connection with a break-in Thursday night or early Friday morning at the Labor Temple, Second and Lamine.

Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney, J. R. Fritz filed the charges against Gerald D. McCormick, 18, Route 3, after the youth had been picked up and interrogated by police officers.

According to the police report, 45 perfume dispensers valued at $2.20 each and one .38 caliber revolver valued at $10 were reported missing from the building. The total loss was estimated at $109. However, police noted 36 of the perfume dispensers valued at $79.20 were recovered. The revolver was turned in to Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax.

McCormick was taken into custody by police officers Friday and held overnight in the city jail pending the filing of state charges. The police report stated McCormick signed a statement to Police Sergeants Perry Franklin and William E. Miller admitting his role in the break-in, but would not name an accomplice allegedly involved in the burglary with him.

State charges of second degree burglary and stealing over $50 were filed against McCormick and Cummings, and both are being lodged in the county jail in lieu of $1,000 bonds pending a preliminary hearing.

The break-in was apparently reported early Friday, but no notation of the burglary was made on the city police blotter until later.

Saturday night Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said Robert Cummings, Route 1, Sedalia, was also charged and held in the case.

Outstanding Farmer Nomination Forms Available in Sedalia

Nomination forms for the Outstanding Young Farmer of the year in Pettis County, are available at the Chamber of Commerce office, and at the office of the County Extension Agent. Both offices are in Sedalia.

The program of selecting the young farmer of Pettis County is under the auspices of the Sedalia Junior Chamber of Commerce. Judging will be based on three main points: progress in farming as a career, soil and natural resources conservation practices, and contributions to the community, and to the state and nation.

All farmers between the ages of 21 and 35, inclusive, are eligible. The farmer is not required to be a member of the Jaycees, nor is the person making the nomination required to be a Jaycee. Leaders of farm organizations and other organizations having dealings with farmers have been encouraged to make nominations.

Full instructions for filling out the nomination forms are printed on the nomination blanks. The forms must be in the mail or delivered to the Jaycees by Jan. 1,

Chief Katanga Base Goes Down Before U.N. Troops

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—U.N. forces overwhelmed three Katangan strongholds in Elisabethville Saturday, the United Nations announced. With his capitol toppling, President Moise Tshombe quit the city, vowing to fight to the end.

Last stronghold to fall was Camp Massart, the chief Katangan base on the eastern side of the city.

Katangan soldiers still held out in the heart of the capitol near the Leopold II Hotel, crowded with refugees from two days of furious ground fighting.

Hospitals jammed with wounded were without water, as was most of the city. Food was scarce. Shops were smashed by the mortar fire. And still the fighting went on in a violent rainstorm.

A spokesman for Tshombe's secessionist government announced Tshombe had arrived at Kipushi, 30 miles south of the capitol on the border of Northern Rhodesia. Tshombe took refuge there for a time during the fighting between his troops and U.N. forces in September.

Before leaving Elisabethville, Tshombe issued a communique charging the U.N. offensive in the city "led to a massacre of the Elisabethville civilian population." Declaring Katanga will continue to resist, the communique predicted "butchery will only strengthen our faith in the final victorious issue of a just fight."

Dispatches from the battered capitol said it seemed impossible that the 2,000-man Katangan garrison with its white officers could hold out much longer against the onslaught of 6,000 Swedish, Irish and Indian Gurkha troops.

Morale was low among the Katangans. White officers in jeeps rode the streets trying to rally them. The officers even called on male refugees in the Leopold II Hotel to join the fighting.

All direct communications were cut between Elisabethville and the outside world. Newsmen carrying dispatches out to Rhodesia reported white mercenaries feverishly fortifying positions south of the capitol, apparently for another stand.

Camp Massart, recently renamed Camp Tshombe, was captured by three Swedish companies who broke the resistance of 350 Katangan defenders, the U.N. announced.

No Swedish troops were killed, but five were wounded in storming the camp, the U.N. said. It was considered the last stronghold of the Katanga gendarmerie, a semi-military police unit, in Elisabethville.

Earlier in the day, two other strongholds fell, U.N. reports said.

Washington Sidewalks Are Packed

Picket Groups Show Up Despite Fact Kennedy Is Gone

WASHINGTON (AP)—Americans for and against any number of things showed up at the White House Saturday.

The fact that President Kennedy was thousands of miles away on a Latin American visit in no way deterred the busy group of pickets who packed the sidewalk.

Signs carried by them expressed a wide variety of views and Kennedy would be hard-pressed to follow all the advice.

"Stop the arms race," ordered one group. "Missiles, not missives," demanded another. "Free Morton Sobell," pleaded advocates of the convicted spy conspirator. "Free Hess," urged admirers of Rudolf Hess, Hitler's former chief aide.

By far the largest group was Young Americans for Freedom, an anti-communist student organization. Manning the picket line were about 300 members from Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and the District of Columbia.

They directed their fire at Kennedy, the United Nations and those calling for a ban on nuclear tests.

One such group was at the other end of the sidewalk today. It was composed of students from Bethel College, Newton, Kan., who are planning to maintain their fast and their picket line for three days.

The Kansas students were joined by members of the Student Peace Union from New York, and the Peace Action Center of Washington, D. C., until their ranks totaled 50.

"Don't mimic Russia," urged their signs, and "We support President Kennedy's reluctance to resume atomic tests."

Between the two college groups were five khaki-clad members of the American Nazi Party with their "Free Hess" sign.

4-H Round-Up

Pettis County Assoc. Agent

Attention 4-H Junior Leaders

The Henry County 4-H Junior Leaders have invited the Pettis, Bates, Cass, Benton, St. Clair, Johnson and Vernon County 4-H members, age 14 and over, to a party on Friday night, Jan. 6. The event will be held at the Maroff Armory beginning at 7:30 p.m. Bring a friend if you wish. There will be refreshments.

Interesting 4-H Projects

Since the parents of one-fourth of the boys and girls in Pettis County 4-H club work are not engaged in farming, livestock and crops projects do not fit their needs. In addition, our farm boys and girls have interests that range far wider than their own barnyard fences.

One of the projects growing in popularity is automotive care and safety. It is geared to the interests of older 4-H members. Almost every youngster is going to be behind the wheel of either the family car or his own car as soon as he can. This project is set up to help members be safe and efficient drivers.

Some of the lessons covered in Automotive Care and Safety include highway safety, what make a car run and car costs. They also learn about selection and care of tires and what to look for in buying a used car.

Another project which has a great deal of appeal to teenagers, both boys and girls, is Buying and Wearing Clothes. What woman hasn't gone to the closet and complained she "hasn't a thing to wear." What she probably means is that she doesn't have anything that looks "right" for the coming special event. We all know the best wardrobe, regardless of cost, is one built around a definite plan. Buying and Wearing Clothes is a natural for teenage boys and girls. Clothes may not make the man or woman, but they do help a lot.

Photography appeals to most any boy or girl in the 10 to 20 year age group. From snapping a family picture with a simple box camera to shooting a speeding train, there's a real thrill in snapping and developing your own pictures. Members learn about taking pictures with flood lights, with flash bulbs and with ordinary room lights. In advanced projects, 4-H'ers actually develop film and print pictures. Developing pictures at home requires very little equipment and here's a project which may provide hours of enjoyment now and be a fascinating hobby later.

Since one-third of all boys and girls belong to no organizations, maybe you know someone who would be interested in these 4-H projects.

Health in 4-H Program

I'm calling on all 4-H leaders today on the subject of Health. With the year well under way it's time to do a quick check-up on the progress we're making on a subject that is vital to every 4-H member in your club. You know

PEEK ABOO, says five year old Karan to her father SSgt. George J. Buss of Headquarters Group. SSgt. Buss uses one of several kinds of windshield scrapers available at the Base Exchange Service Station for cleaning his windshield. Base safety authorities advise all personnel to clean both their front and back windows before driving cars on or off base. They noted that clear vision can prevent accidents, especially in cold weather. (Skywriter Photo)

the fourth "H" stands for health so that means every club should include health in their yearly program.

1. I am assuming that your club has appointed a committee or a group to plan the health portion of your program. This program should be based on the needs of the members and the community.
2. Has your program committee limited your health subject to one area such as dental health, posture, first aid, and so on? Concentrate on depth rather than trying to do all things.
3. Definite health goals should be established. These goals are necessary to insure an action program in health.
5. Your health committee should be planned in such a way that it will help your group accomplish this established goal.

5. Your health committee should be assuming responsibility for seeing that the health phase of the program is ready for each monthly meeting.

6. When a member is assigned a part on the program, give adequate help to do a nice job before the club.

7. And, the health committee should keep the club informed as the health work progresses.

If you can check off all of these items then your health program is up to date. If you cannot check off these items, don't be discouraged because there's still plenty of time to provide some very valuable health information for the members of your club.

Christmas Party Luncheon Held By Garden Club

Garden Club No. 2 held its annual Christmas party on Saturday, Dec. 9, with a luncheon at Flat Creek Inn. Hostesses were Mrs. Less Layne, Mrs. Leo Eickhoff, Mrs. H.C. Feuers and Mrs. Willie Alfrey.

The tables, seating 23 members, were beautifully decorated with blue candles and Christmas greens. Clever blue and green felt bookmarks were the favors. Gifts were piled under a white Christmas tree on a gaily decorated table.

Mrs. Leo Eickhoff was in charge of the devotionals after which a delicious luncheon was served followed by a gift exchange.

Mrs. Don Anderson, out-going president, opened a short business meeting by thanking the members for their cooperation during the past two years and expressing her pleasure in serving as president. Beautiful year books for 1962-63 were passed out.

As is the usual custom the members made decorations for tiny Christmas trees to be used on the trays at Whiteman Air Force Base Hospital.

The next meeting of Club No. 2, will be held in January at the home of Mrs. Harold Anderson, 616 West Fifth.

USDA Makes Ready For A Centennial

WASHINGTON (AP)—On May 15, 1862, President Abraham Lincoln had a war on his hands. But he took time to sign the act creating the Department of Agriculture.

That war is in the process of being commemorated in many ways in the Civil War centennial observances. Beginning May 15, 1962, by proclamation of President Kennedy, the USDA will begin its 100th birthday party.

Part of the idea behind the creation of the USDA was to insure plenty of food for the Union armies. The food was provided and ever since U.S. farmers have been turning out food and fiber at such a pace that this nation never has known famine.

Born in a real war, the Department of Agriculture has figured in countless political battles and the end is not in sight. Ironically, it is the very plenty which it has helped create that makes the department—or its policies, at least—the subject of so much controversy.

The department is planning many events next year to point with pride at what the American farmer has accomplished during the past century.

At the same time, Secretary Orville L. Freeman will be battling with Congress in an effort to establish new farm programs.

Freeman's main plea is expected to be for more authority to carry out his supply management philosophy. The nub of this is to control production of products that exceed demand. The opposition will center on the theme that the farmer in the long run will be better off with fewer controls.

The Agriculture Department, in preparing for the centennial observance, says that agriculture is the nation's biggest industry.

The department adds: "Its assets exceed $206 billion. Its annual cash sales total about $34 billion. It employs more than 7 million people on its 3.7 million farms and ranches. Four out of every 10 jobs in private employment are in agriculture, or related to it."

"Farmers and their families have a buying power of $40 to $41 billion a year. Farmers use nearly half as much steel as the automobile and truck industry, more petroleum products than any other industry, and are major purchasers of rubber, chemicals, electricity and countless other products."

Speaking at KU

Interchange of Officials Draws Plaudits of Soviet

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—More U.S. Senators should go to Russia and more Soviet leaders should come to America to address the Senate.

That suggestion was made Thursday night by Alexander Fomin, counselor to the Russian embassy in Washington, in a panel discussion with four University of Kansas professors.

"I think within the last year I have felt a greater wish among U.S. and Russian diplomats to do something to improve relations," Fomin said.

Earlier Thursday, Fomin spoke at a student convocation, saying Hitlerite generals are leading West Germany and are provoking trouble between the United States and Russia.

Representing the U.S. government was Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., special assistant to President Kennedy. Schlesinger said Communism is an obsolete doctrine that appeals to countries which want to enter modern society in one big leap.

The appearance of Fomin and Schlesinger was protested by a Wichita post of the American Legion.

In the panel discussion, attended by about 500 students and faculty members, John Ise, professor emeritus of economics, told Fomin: "Khrushchev doesn't want disarmament. He says he does, but he doesn't. He doesn't want to throw away those bombs while China is about to develop nuclear weapons. And we don't want to throw ours away either."

Ise said the Russians have been as bad about colonialism as any other country in history. On the other hand, he said, the U.S. has investments all over the world and this often affects its foreign policy.

"In some of the underdeveloped countries, I think the best thing to do is get some guns and go in there the way the Russians do," Ise said. "Some countries are so bad you can't do anything for them."

Fomin said the Russian foreign aid program compared favorably to that of the U.S.

"We are not giving money like the U.S. to Somalia and Nicaragua," Fomin said. "Instead, we are helping people by building schools, hydroelectric plants and utilities."

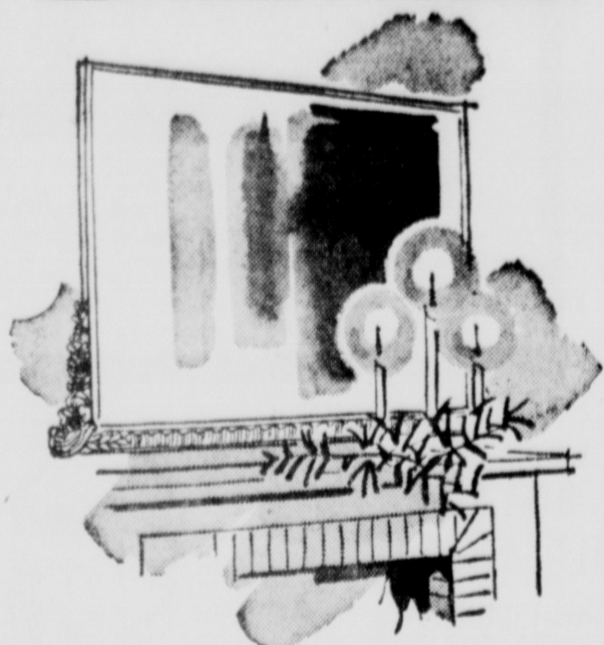

"It is not true we are running these countries with violence — these are independent countries. Look at Yugoslavia. When it wants to disagree, it disagrees."

When asked why Russia was giving so much aid to Afghanistan, Fomin said, "We are just helping them in a neighborly way."

Divorce Considered Start Of New Life---Not An End

HAMILTON, Ala. — (AP) — Alabama Judge Robert E. Moore says a divorce should be considered the beginning of a new life—not an end.

This, he says, is what he had in mind when he started thousands of couples down separate roads after severing their matrimonial ties.

Moore's name has been linked more than any other with quickie divorces in Alabama.

He says he doesn't have any idea how many divorces he has granted in his seven years as a circuit court judge. But he's certain about his philosophy: "My conscience would worry me less if I gave an unhappy couple a divorce than it would if I failed to separate them."

The divorce business grew in Alabama because of the state's laxity in requiring proof of residency. Drove of out-of-state residents flocked to Alabama to end their marriages.

Now, a new rule of conduct adopted by the Alabama Bar Association places the burden of proof of residency on the attorneys.

Moore says this rule already has reduced divorces considerably since it was adopted last summer. "They are going to Mexico more and more instead of coming to Alabama," he said.

But last year, divorces were a landslide business in Alabama, with 5,382 granted in Moore's circuit alone.

"But I am not the only judge granting divorces," said Moore, who is 48.

He has been married nearly 31 years, and he and Mrs. Moore have two sons. They live quietly in nearby Winfield, where Moore attends the Methodist church. He formerly taught Sunday school to adults and young people. He was graduated from the University of Alabama in 1936.

A circuit court judge for more than seven years, he says, "My nerves are destroyed a little bit because of harassments."

Moore says he has been wrong, fully criticized by some for the large number of divorces granted.

He says criticism has come via telephone calls, letters and newspaper clippings.

"I even get clippings about divorces I didn't grant," he said.

"Each divorce is different," he said. Even when there are children, or a broken home—if you care to call it that—it's better for the children, than to have them subjected to fighting and squabbling all the time."

In his court, the mother invariably gets custody of the children. Moore says he has given the father custody in but one case, and that because of unusual circumstances.

Helen G. Steele Music Club Christmas Tea

One of the most colorful and impressive programs of the Helen G. Steele Music Club was the Christmas tea held Wednesday at the Heard Memorial Club House in the surrounding of very beautiful decorations.

Mrs. Robert England, with her co-chairman, Mrs. Don Anderson, presented the following lovely Christmas program which opened with Mrs. Ted Gardner reading "The Nativity Scene".

Mrs. Jack Herndon and Mrs. Robert Seelen then sang "Sleep My Little Jesus," "Thou Little Tiny Child" and "The Holly and the Ivy," accompanied by Mrs. A. R. Beach.

Mrs. William Burkholder then sang a group of songs, "White Christmas," "Winter Wonderland" and "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas," with Mrs. L. H. Temple as accompanist.

A vocal solo by Mrs. Tom Perrin was "Sweet Little Jesus Boy," with Mrs. Temple at the piano.

A group of senior girls from Smith-Cotton High School forming a double sextette, under the direction of Mrs. Carl Schrader, entered from the hall singing "We Wish You a Merry Christmas" followed by three delightful selections acappella, "Searching Carol," "Twelve Days of Christmas" and "Fum, Fum, Fum."

The double sextette was composed of Marilyn Lowe, Jill Ragland, Dolly Alexander, Lois Kirby, Sharon Maggard, Mary Donna

Moore, Sara Brougner, Sharon Middleton, Linda Hughes, Linda Pasley, Carol Williams and Julie Cannon.

In behalf of the social committee, Mrs. William B. Rich, invited members into the dining room for the Christmas tea, where members of the committee served throughout the afternoon.

The table was resplendent with a golden centerpiece enhanced with golden candelabra entwined with holly which made a festive picture of majestic beauty.

Mrs. E. F. Yancey, life president of the club, opened the meeting and introduced Mrs. Jack Cunningham, chairman for the year.

Hostesses were Mrs. N. B. Patton, Mrs. J. L. Hiltberg, Mrs. J. C. Sanders and Mrs. Charles Arnst.

Christmas Plans Bustling: Programs Now In Rehearsal

By MARIAN McKINNEY

Plans are being made at Smith-Cotton for Christmas and the holiday season. Home rooms are looking forward to their Christmas parties, and the orchestra and mixed chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Carl Schrader, are practicing for the Christmas assemblies to be presented Friday afternoon, Dec. 22.

Christmas vacation begins after school Friday, Dec. 22, and ends Tuesday, Jan. 2.

National Forensic League Dance

Friday night, the National Forensic League of Smith-Cotton held a semi-formal dance in the cafeteria.

Ted Phillips and his band furnished the music and everyone enjoyed the evening.

P.T.A. Meeting

Thursday night the Smith-Cotton Parent Teachers Association held its second meeting of the year at 7:30 in the auditorium.

The program included Christmas music from the music department under the direction of Mrs. Carl Schrader.

Following the program, a social hour was held in the cafeteria in which the parents had an opportunity to visit with the teachers.

Future Teachers Party

The Hazel Gray Chapter of the Future Teachers of America held its annual Christmas party Wednesday afternoon.

A program was given in which two inspiring Christmas stories were presented.

Following the program a game was played and refreshments were served.

Student Directories

Student directories will be on sale Monday, Dec. 18, in the home rooms. The price is 35 cents and the directories contain all the names, addresses, and phone numbers of all the students at Smith-Cotton.

Latin Club

The Latin Sodality will hold its monthly meeting Thursday at 7:30 in the Smith-Cotton Little Theater.

BAY SIGHT — Tourists arrive at the 185-foot high Goddess of Mercy figure at Tokyo Bay. The steel and concrete statue also serves as light tower for shipping.

Policeman Kills Man Running From Robbery Scene

KANSAS CITY AP)—A 22-year-old man was shot early today by a policeman as he ran from the scene of a robbery at a laundry in the northeast section of the city.

Paul Lewis Holtel, Kansas City, one of two men who ran from the place, was shot in the back, the bullet going through his body. He was reported in fair condition. Patrolman Billy Reed said as he pulled his car to the front of the establishment a man in a car parked nearby honked his horn. He said two men came running out of the laundry, but the waiting car sped away without them. Reed said the two men ran in opposite directions and he took after Holtel, who he said disregarded warnings to halt.

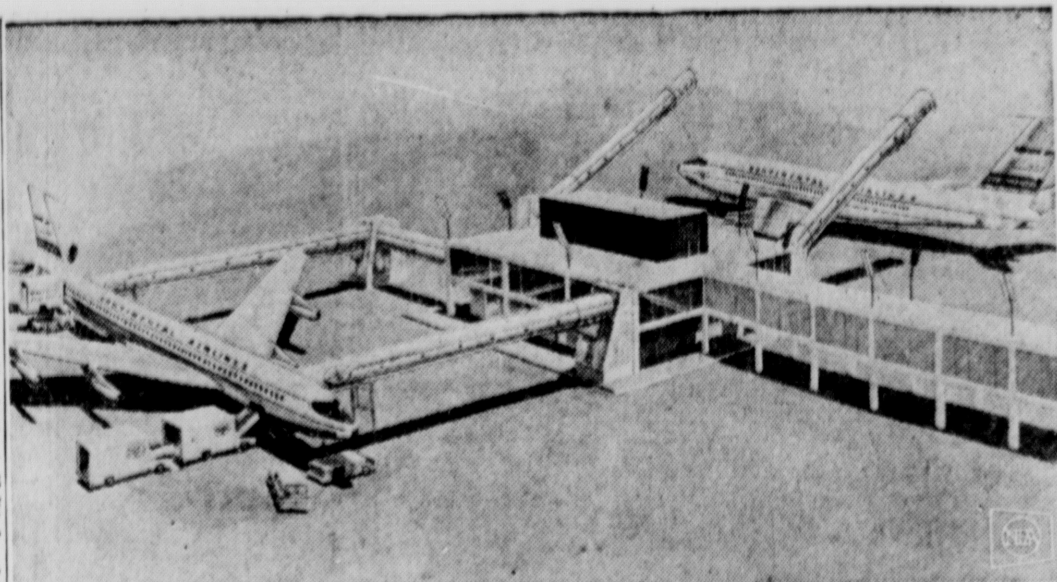

The operator of the place reported about $55 missing from coin machines.

R. I. Woman Found Shot In Waynesville Motel

WAYNESVILLE, Mo. (AP)—A 25-year-old Rhode Island woman died Friday of a bullet wound in the head.

Sheriff Dorsey Rayl said Miss Gail Ann Moses of Bagby Cove, Warren, R. I. was found shot in her motel room with a single shot derringer nearby. An inquest has been set for Monday.

Rayl said Miss Moses and her brother, Tim, 18, were returning from California to Rhode Island by car and had stopped at the motel. He said the brother called the motel manager after hearing a shot in the sister's room.

TUBULAR TAKE OFF—Passengers will walk through 80-foot-long tubular tunnels when they leave or board jetliners at a new facility soon to go into operation at Chicago's O'Hare Field. Made of high-strength aluminum alloy, the $40,000 8½-foot diameter "drawbridges" can be raised to a 35-degree angle when not in use, as at right in drawing. They can also be swung horizontally or lowered to the ground to handle nonjets.

Lower Standards In Nursing Homes Move By Spalding

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP)—The Federal Housing Administration should lower construction standards of nursing homes in rural areas as a means of providing more nursing home beds, in the opinion of State Sen. Albert M. Spalding, D-Cape Girardeau.

Spalding said this move would reduce costs to old people who suffer serious illness or injury and stimulate the construction of additional acceptable nursing home beds for the elderly.

He spoke at a hearing conducted by a U. S. Senate subcommittee on retirement income. Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., presided at the hearing, one of a series being held in the state. Dr. Raymond A. Ritter, repre-

Pope John Urges Leaders Reestablish Peace In Congo

VATICAN CITY, Rome AP)—Pope John XXIII called upon responsible leaders Saturday to reestablish peace in the Congo, "whose blessed lands are bathed in blood."

The Pope's plea was considered to be a response to requests from Belgium, and Katanga's President Moise Tshombe, for his intervention in the Congo conflict, to Pope John, obviously deeply moved, said: "We turn to all who can and should, with disinterested council, objective information and the light of right, cooperate to establish peace in that country, to prepare tranquil and serene days for all."

Protest Tour Advocated By Councilwoman

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A member of London's City Council revealed a plan Friday to take British mothers on an international tour to protest nuclear weapons tests.

"Men don't have the same instincts for the preservation of children as women do. We (women) have got to assert our will for life against the male militarists," Mrs. Ann Kerr said in an interview.

$30 Million Haul By Trujillo, Jr.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Rafael L. Trujillo Jr. skipped the country with $30 million, the government says.

Checks and certificates drawn against Canadian banks made out to and endorsed by the son of the slain dictator were found on a yacht he used to sail into exile. The documents reportedly were issued by several private enterprises, among them the reserve bank. The Dominican government has started action to freeze the funds and try to recover the money.

Young Trujillo, who headed the armed forces for a time after his father was assassinated May 30, is now in Paris. He traveled aboard the yacht Angelita only as far as the French island of Guadeloupe. The vessel returned here and was confiscated.

AIRMAN Basic James F. Kempf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Kempf of 111 West Pettis, Tipton, is being assigned to the United States Air Force technical training course for intelligence specialists at Chanute AFB, Ill.

THIS IS A CLASSROOM?—Odd appearing, yes, but this is a new laboratory-classroom used in modern methods of teaching foreign languages. Three Grand Rapids, Mich., high schools boast these installations. Language lessons on tape are monitored to individual students or groups of students. Sponsors claim two advantages: each student is able to progress according to his ability and is prodded to think in the language.

Lure to Explorers

Glimpse Sees More Than Stare In Elusive Africa

EDITOR'S NOTE—The mysteries of Africa have always been a lure to explorers. Today parts of the Dark Continent are as aglow with neon living as Any Town, U.S.A., and explorers travel by car, not safari. But there's plenty of mystery in the old continent yet as one motorist found after 14 months behind the wheel.

By PAUL CONKLIN

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Sometimes the glimpse sees more than the stare.

So it is in Africa. The giant panorama of the changing continent often is elusive until it is frozen into focus by a fleeting view from a car window or a surprise scene around the turning of a road.

A wild animal, at dusk, come to water. The quick laugh of a camel driver at a stalled auto. The traveled emir and his groveling subjects.

For the past 14 months, my wife and I have driven thousands of miles over the roads of West Africa. It is a huge swatch of green and brown; rain forest, bush and semidesert; squalor such as shocked Peace Corps member Margory Michelmore cheek by jowl with the most gleaming, overstaffed comforts of supermarket living. It's a huge picture of change. But often the little picture remains longer in mind.

One of the endless herds of cattle that wander across the arid plateaus of West Africa in search of forage was blocking a stretch of highway in the Niger Republic. The huge, slow-moving animals were oblivious of the bright red station wagon caught in their midst.

Across the station wagon's side was a sign acclaiming a "famous pink headache pill." After much horn blowing the swearing American driver got his vehicle free. He sped away in a swirl of dust. Two camel riders who had witnessed the entire scene with considerable relish turned and, laughing the while, disappeared in the opposite direction.

The Niger River is a mile wide at Onitsha where it divides Nigeria's eastern and western regions. Within five years a bridge will span the river. Travelers must still take a dilapidated ferry which creaks and groans under its load of people, cars and gaudily painted lorries.

Patent medicine vendors do a brisk business with a magic elixir guaranteed to cure everything from pneumonia to snake bite. Boys with trays and books move from lorry to lorry. Mixed in with standard British and American classics are their titles: "How to Avoid Poverty," "Florence of the River of Temptation," "Beware of Women," "Rosemary and the Taxi Driver."

Even though Nigeria is Africa's most democratic country, there are still potentates around whose life and death authority over their subjects rivals that of a medieval prince. These are the emirs of the northern region.

Late one afternoon we called upon one of these Moslem autocrats, the Emir of Zaria. A retailer led us into the palace through chamber after chamber in which muffled figures could be seen lounging in the shadows. The emir sat in his throne room on a swivel chair of the kind used by business executives. An electric fan revolved slowly overhead. A portly, beturbaned figure who has a sixth finger on each hand, the emir reminisced in good English about his trip to the United States in 1957.

The emir was interrupted when an elderly man parted the curtains of the throne room and prostrated himself on the floor. After mumbling something to the emir he crawled out of the room backwards.

In a like manner the emir's one million subjects throw themselves in the dust when he rides among them in one of his American limousines.

Although modern Timbuktu is a far cry from the bustling caravan center it was several centuries ago, this crumbling desert city in eastern Mali is still exotic enough for the average tourist. Electricity has not come to the city yet and once the sun falls behind the rim of the Sahara all is muffled in black—except for the square where Timbuktu's young gather for their frequent dances.

A throng of teen-agers forms a big circle around a table upon which half a dozen lanterns hiss and sputter. Mali's red, yellow and green flag flutters from a short pole near the table.

As the tom-toms—empty oil barrels with skin stretched across their ends—begin to sound, girls in bright dresses and headscarves begin to leap and run in a fit of youthful exuberance. The tom-toms quicken and in time the girls look like colorful moths circling a flame.

Later boys enter the dance. A young nomad mounted upon a camel appears at the edge of the crowd. At his belt are the elaborately decorated broad sword and dagger traditionally carried by desert warriors in this region.

Girls' Club Carol Fest Set Friday

Few, perhaps, realize what the singing of carols means to elderly people or shut-ins unless they have actually seen the joy of those who have been so remembered, and that is why the Sedalia Girls' Club plans to carol Friday night.

They are asking people of the community to help them by calling TA 6-0354 to tell them of some shut-ins or elderly people who might be missed. Churches have caroling, but they go to their own members, and other groups carol but they have their own individuals, too, so the Sedalia Girls' Club members want to bring cheer to those who are usually forgotten. But they must know by Wednesday because they need to make their schedule, a spokesman said.

The club is composed of single girls over high school age.

5 Councilmen

poses on the City," Roberts said, "and another angle is that it is rather costly for a candidate running for council when the job doesn't pay too much. He has the expense of a primary campaign, then the general election."

Probably the big race in the primary election will come in the Democratic party for the nomination for Chief of Police. Names mentioned as possible candidates are Leonard Ditzfield, present police judge, who is a former police officer, Frank Hugelman, Joe Raines, Charles Ramseyer and three police officers, Herbert Petree, Robert Quann and Clarence Harrell. On the Republican side, the only name mentioned to date is that of the present Chief, Ralph Hamlin.

So far the only name outspoken for police magistrate is that of U. L. Howerton, present traffic clerk.

There is still speculation over the Republican candidate for Mayor, although William Schien indicated some time ago he was not a candidate, party leaders are still discussing Schien along with Paul Hedderich and A. W. Haller.

Over on the Democratic side Mayor Abe Silverman, who was elected as an Independent but is politically a Democrat, has not definitely decided to run. Former Mayor Julian H. Bagby is being discussed as a possible candidate. E. Glenn Lewis, Councilman in the Third Ward, has let it be known that he desires to become a candidate and will possibly be among the first to file.

City Collector Paul Alpert, who has held that position in the City Hall for many terms is expected to seek the Democratic nomination for re-election. Although it is four months before the city general election, it is unlikely he will have any opposition. The Republicans have not mentioned a possible candidate to date.

Among the City Councilmen races, E. B. Smith, has not indicated if he will seek reelection, yet no other Democrat has been mentioned to succeed him on the party ticket. The same stands for Republicans—no name has been mentioned at this time.

Over in the Second Ward, R. N. Snavely, whose term ends next Spring, appears likely to seek reelection. No Republican name has been brought out there, or has one been brought out in the Third and Fourth Wards as yet.

In the Third Ward if Lewis seeks to run for Mayor, a candidate will be sought to run for his office. Stanton Hudson, publisher of a local weekly, has indicated recently that he might seek public office. He has previously run for councilman and was defeated in the primary by a slim margin.

Raymond Roberts, Democrat is expected to seek reelection. He is completing his first term as a councilman.

John M. Blue, city assessor, and Mrs. Rosie Pearl Robb, city treasurer, are both likely Democratic candidates for re-election. Both have been in office several terms.

As time grows nearer for the elections, additional candidates are expected to be mentioned and many will probably place their names on their party tickets.

John C. McCloskey, who was elected City Attorney, and also holds the city councillor position by appointment, is expected to seek reelection on the Democratic ticket.

Circuit Judge Frank W. Hayes awarded a young Pettis Countian $300 personal damages in Circuit Court Saturday morning for injuries allegedly suffered on a carnival amusement ride.

The damages awarded to Charles E. Leiter, a minor through his father acting as next friend, Leo Leiter, Route 2, were assessed against the Gooding Amusement Company.

Young Leiter allegedly sustained injuries to a front upper tooth on Aug. 27, 1960, at the Missouri State Fair while riding the "Flying Coaster," operated by the carnival firm.

John C. McCloskey was attorney for the plaintiff while Martin, Gibson and Gardner acted as counselors for the defense.

In Other Hospitals

Mrs. H. D. Wallington, former Sedalian, now of Hiawatha, Kan., has been admitted to the Hiawatha Community Hospital.

August F. Oehrke, Smithton, has been admitted to the Veterans Hospital, Wadsworth, Kan., for surgery.

LATHAM HOSPITAL NEWS: Admissions—Fred Rolls, and Leslie Harrington, California. Dismissed—Mrs. Raymond Slepser, Clarksburg, and Mrs. Otto Schoenberg, Jamestown.

Mrs. Vic Hartman of Tipton fell at the front sidewalk of the family home in East Tipton about 10 a. m. Wednesday morning, breaking her right hip. She was taken in the Richard's ambulance to the Charles E. Still Hospital in Jefferson City where she underwent surgery Thursday morning.

Accidents

Extensive damage resulted to the front end of a 1958 Ford sedan driven by William H. Walker, 1320 South Harrison, which was in collision with a diesel engine of the Missouri Pacific Railroad about 5:58 a. m. Friday. No injuries were suffered by Walker.

According to the police accident report, Walker was headed south on Engineer, and the diesel engine, Extra No. 521, east bound freight train, was crossing the Engineer crossing when the accident occurred.

Walker reported he was traveling about 15 miles per hour when he saw the train approaching and applied his brakes. The roadway was slippery and the car skidded into the side of the diesel. Engineer C. F. Mindenhause, pf Jefferson City, reported to the police he was traveling about seven or eight miles per hour on track No. 1.

R. M. Leach, Jefferson City, was the conductor, and J. V. Moore, Jefferson City, the brakeman.

The car was towed to the W. A. Smith Motor Co.

An International truck, that had been parked in the 400 block on West Pettis, rolled out of its parking place and into a 1957 Ford owned by Kenneth Baker, in front of the Baker home at 408 West Pettis at 8:51 p. m. Thursday.

The truck had been driven by Elmer Howell, Gulfport, Miss. The rear of the car was damaged. The truck was not damaged.

A 1960 Ford sedan slid into a ditch about a mile west of Latham about 7:30 a. m. Saturday and turned over.

The driver, Kenneth Johnson, 30, Whiteman AFB, was not injured. Damage to the car was estimated at $600 by Trooper Pete Stohr, who investigated the accident.

Stohr told the Democrat-Capital several cars had to be towed out of the ditch in that area during the time he was there investigating the Johnson accident.

Walter Perrin, 33, Slater, was admitted to Bothwell Hospital shortly after an accident three miles north of Sedalia on highway 65 at 7:58 p. m. Saturday.

According to reports, Perrin, driver of a semi-trailer truck, said the truck jack-knifed when he was forced to stop to avoid hitting another vehicle. The truck was extensively damaged.

Perrin complained of a back injury and was taken to the hospital in the McLaughlin ambulance.

Blood Is Needed For Mrs. Wilbert Askew

Blood is needed for Mrs. Elizabeth Askew, wife of Wilbert Askew, who is a patient in St. Luke's Hospital and has received 14 blood transfusions. Mrs. Askew will undergo surgery Monday for a tumor.

The transfusions have been given to Mrs. Askew and blood is needed for a replacement fund which may be made in Sedalia at Bothwell Memorial Hospital. The blood may also be deposited to her account at the Lexington Memorial Hospital in Lexington, Mo., the Community Blood Bank, 4040 Main Street, Kansas City; Atchinson Hospital, 1308 North Second Street, the Cushing Memorial Hospital, Marshal Street at West Seventh, Leavenworth, Kans., and St. John's Hospital, 630, Leavenworth. It will take 26 pints of blood to replace the amount needed for Mrs. Askew, since the replacement requires two for one. Any type blood is acceptable for the replacement.

STOP LEARNING

Each year more than 300 new medicines are made available for physician prescribing. As quickly as each one is released for sale we stock it in our prescription laboratory.

Then we study to learn their dosage, storage problems, incompatibilities when combined with other drugs and therapeutic uses. For . . . we often can save a busy physician's time by answering questions about new products.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

It's Time to Make Ready

By MARY PIPER
The party-time whirl has started. And from now until the New Year is rung in, you'll find yourself getting deeper and deeper into the social swim.
Now, before it all catches up with you, is the time to freshen up your menus of hors d'oeuvres. These can make cocktail time or late evening get-togethers. They add eye and taste appeal.
It takes skill and imagination to wow your guests with appetizers. But the rewards are well worth the little extra fuss.
Some handy tips may help. French dressing added to raw or cooked vegetables always works for an appetizer. The trick lies in arranging them attractively in bite sizes and then sprinkling them with chopped parsley.
Take white string beans, for instance. Sprinkle 3 cups of cooked white beans with garlic salt. Add a chopped onion and 2 tablespoons chopped parsley. Then marinate the beans in just enough French dressing to cover.
Other words of advice: If hors d'oeuvres are to precede a meal, it's best not to duplicate any ingredients. Serve both hot and cold appetizers. And if you serve them on your living room coffee table,

Explosion In Revenge

Long Accelerator Smasher To Probe Secrets of Atom

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — A two-mile long atom smasher that will operate like a nuclear explosion in reverse is under development here to tear new secrets from the heart of the atom.
The linear accelerator will be the biggest of its kind in the world and will so open the field of nuclear physics that scientists aren't even sure to what use they will put the $144 million machine.
However, it may show that for short distances the speed of light travels faster than its theoretical speed of 186,300 miles per second. Or it might discover why the nucleus of an atom sticks together so tenaciously.
The accelerator, being financed by the federal government, will be constructed and operated by Stanford University.
Basically, the accelerator is much like a television picture tube. Electrons are injected and directed down a tube to provide a visual presentation at the target end where they collide with terrific energy against atomic nuclei.
The electrons will be forced through the 4-inch copper tube by radar-type pulses from 240 klystrons with a total power of up to 24 million watts. The electron beam will have so little current that it would not light a flashlight bulb. It will be so powerful that unless properly slowed and filtered, it could shatter a fairly large metal object.
The electrons quickly travel near the speed of light and as energy is boosted and reboosted, the electrons' mass also increases in accordance with Einstein's theory of relativity that opened the way to the nuclear bomb.
When an atom's nucleus is split, there is a release of energy and the sum of the weight of the surviving parts is somewhat less than that of the original atom.
In Stanford's linear accelerator, the opposite will take place. As energy is boosted, the electrons' mass also will increase, up to 40,000 times their original weight. They lose their weight again when they are slowed and crash into the target area.
Here the electron bullets smash into targets such as the protons of hydrogen atoms. The results are observed visually, on photographic film, in liquid bubble chambers or gas-filled cloud chambers.
When an electron strikes a proton, its energy may transform the target into two protons equal in weight to the original and an anti-proton, literally creating matter.
The stray protons may pick up electrons from another atom and become hydrogen or they may join with a more complex atom, increasing its atomic weight.
The antiprotons eventually combine with another proton in a flash of energy that obliterates each.
As the electrons near the end of the gun and the target, they emit huge quantities of radiation, several times the amount needed to kill man. For this reason, the copper tube will be buried under 35 feet of earth and the target area surrounded by up to 35 feet of concrete blocks, which will replace more expensive lead in most cases.

There is no possibility that the terrific energies will get out of hand and cause an explosion or an uncontrollable release of radiation, Stanford scientists say.

With Double Reverses

Kansas Crushes Rice 33-7
In Bluebonnet Bowl Game

HOUSTON — Kansas ran Rice University ragged with double reverses and the power of Ken Coleman Saturday as the Jayhawks crushed the favored Owls 33-7 in the third annual Bluebonnet Bowl football game.

Coleman, a 201-pound sophomore, scored twice while grinding out 107 yards in 18 carries. Roger McFarland got two more on neatly executed double reverses.

John Hadl, who Friday denied charges he had signed a pro contract, directed all five Kansas scoring drives and set up one of Coleman's touchdowns with a 41-yard scamper on a faked fourth down punt.

Immediately after the game, a scout for the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League met Hadl under the south goalpost and signed the Kansas star to a 1962 contract.

Rice took a brief 7-6 lead with a 6-yard drive late in the first period but Hadl's beautiful run led the Kansas comeback and the Owls made only one serious threat.

A light rain that fell practically throughout the nationally televised game cut attendance at the 70,000-seat Rice Stadium to 52,000. Bluebonnet officials, however, said 61,000 tickets had been sold.

Rice had been favored by three points to score its fifth victory in seven post-season bowl games. Kansas was making its first bowl appearance since losing to Georgia Tech 14-20 in the 1948 Orange Bowl.

Coleman was voted the game's most outstanding back. Elvin Basham, chunky Kansas guard, was the outstanding lineman.

Rice's touchdown came on a five-yard pass from Randy Kerbow to Johnny Burrell.

The Kansas scoring drives covered 59, 65, 50, 36 and 69 yards. After Coleman had scored the first two touchdowns, Curtis McClinton ran the Jayhawk lead to 19-7 by carrying over from the fur.

McFarland's touchdown runs caught the Rice flatfooted and covered 9 and 12 yards each.

Hadl, who completed seven of 10 passes for 64 yards, started the first Kansas drive with a 14-yard pass to McFarland. Coleman then took over and moved 32 yards to the Rice four in four carries.

Gary Poage started Rice toward its only score with a 21-yard run to the Kansas 48. Kerbow passed 11 yards to Burrell and Butch Blume put the Owls within striking distance with an 18-yard run to the 12. Blume also kicked the extra point.

Hadl's 41-yard run carried to the Rice 19 midway in the second period. On the next play Coleman ran over three Rice defenders while powering 18 yards to the one. He plunged over on the next play. In the last 28 seconds of the half, Kerbow completed three passes that moved Rice 61 yards. Bob Wayt caught a 35-yarder at the Kansas five as the halftime gun.

Kansas had the ball only twice in the third quarter but scored both time and pulled away to a 25-7 lead.

Coleman and McFarland accounted for all but McClinton's four yard touchdown run on the 50-yard drive.

Late in the period, Fred Eisman recovered a Rice fumble at the Owl 36 and McFarland got his first double reverse six-point-er 11 plays later. A 13-yard pass from Hadl to Tony Leiker moved to the 14, the only pass of the drive.

Attendance 52,000 (61,000 paid). KANS—Coleman 1 run (kick failed).

RICE—Burrell 5 pass from Kerbow (Blume kick).

KAN—Coleman 1 run (pass failed).

KANS—McClinton 4 run (Barnes kick).

KANS—McFarland 9 run (kick failed).

KANS—McFarland 12 run (Hadl passed to Bowdson).

Chief Little Eagle Will Take Bow Before Sedalians

Suni War Cloud, Don Eagle, War Eagle. Those are just a few of the great names among Indian wrestlers who have established themselves as stars in the pro mat ranks.

Now comes another bidding for fame, and chances are he'll make it before too long. He's Chief Little Eagle, a muscular, iron-fisted heavyweight who will make his bow before Sedalia fans Tuesday night at Convention Hall.

The 230-pound Indian seems to be perennially on the warpath and he's ready to do battle with all the top men on the Mo-Kan wrestling scene. Little Eagle is pitted against boisterous Corsica Joe for his first showing here. Once past that hurdle, it is expected the ambitious Indian will wend his way quickly to the top of the heap as he has done repeatedly in other sections of the country.

Their pairing will be but one of four events involving eight wrestlers. The double main event will feature a tag team clash between four rugged giants and a women's championship go.

Otterville
Trounces
Jamestown

The Otterville Eagles severely trounced the Jamestown Eagles in a top-sided contest at Otterville, Friday night, the final score being 55-30.

Otterville led most of the game. Their quarterly score advanced as each new quarter came around. According to Bill Brandstetter, reporter for Otterville, the team played very well.

Bob Benson, led his team to victory with 35 big points, on ten field goals and 12 free throws. He scored over 60 per cent of the points his team made. Larry Pace took top honors for Jamestown with 11 points scored on five field goals and one free throw.

In girl's competition, the Otterville Eagles squeaked by on one point to defeat the Jamestown Eagles 33-32.

Bobby Holman led her team to victory, scoring 13 points on five field goals and three charity tosses. Norma Hampton was high for her team with 18 big points.

Otterville takes on Prairie Home at Prairie Home in a CCAA conference game, Tuesday.

Panthers Nip
Chilhowee In Friday Game

The Knob Noster Panthers picked up a close game from Chilhowee, 61-40, Friday night, at Knob Noster.

Scoring was close in the first quarter as the Panthers took a three-point edge over Chilhowee. The lead was still held in the second quarter as both teams scored 17 points each. Knob Noster increased the lead in the third and went on to add more to the score in the fourth.

Fuller took the lead for the Panthers with 13 points, scoring on five field goals and three free throws. Southern was top man for Chilhowee with 17.

According to Redford Reichert, Knob Noster coach, the Panthers played a good defensive game in the second half, a decisive factor in the game.

In the "B" contest Knob Noster took a smashing victory from Chilhowee, 45-15. Temple was high with 12 for Knob Noster.

Knob Noster plays Windsor next, Tuesday night.

Score by quarters:

Chilhowee ... 10 17 7 6—40
Individual scoring: Knob Noster—Zinc, 12; Rhinehardt, 12; Sebastian, 9; Ficken, 4; Tebbenkamp, 7; Henderson, 4. Chilhowee—Wilcockson, 11; McKenzie, 5; McQuitty, 3; Stoneking, 2; and Fisher, 2.

Ronald Johnson, netted 22 points on ten field goals and two charity tosses to lead the Tigers' scoring. Wolbrecht and Mack both hit the loop for 16 big points to lead the 'Jays scoring.

Unbeaten Illinois
Takes Fourth Win

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Unbeaten Illinois, making good on 16 out of 18 free throws, rolled up its fourth non-conference basketball victory Saturday with an 82-73 trimming of Iowa State.

The triumph was the 33rd straight in non-league action for the Illini at home.

Each team hit 33 field goals, Illinois getting that many in 79 attempts for a 418 average and the Cyclones bagging theirs in 81 shots for 407. Iowa state, losing its fourth game in five starts, made only seven free tosses in 13 tries.

Illinois trailed most of the first half before hitting 11 straight points for a 43-38 edge at intermission. The closest the visitors came to closing the gap was 46-44 early in the second half.

Population of the United States was an estimated 31 million at the beginning of the War Between the States in 1861.

Sports Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

IT seems I wasn't correct in stating Columbia has a Booster Club in connection with their High School athletic activities—my informant to the fact was certain they had one because of the school spirit back of their team. He was just as surprised as myself when he learned there wasn't such. However, the high school activities are given plenty of town backing which means just as much.

Over in Columbia it seems the Sports Scraps were read with interest, they were not complaining because there isn't a Boosters Club, but pointed out the reasons the teams are up and coming.

The writer stated "while we have no Booster Club in Columbia, we do have exceptionally fine school spirit as is evident when we play away from home. We travel to Clayton on December 22, to play the high school basketball team there. Our Pep squad and the Key Club (a boys organization) each have chartered a bus for the game.

"The Coaches at Hickman feel that the tremendous school spirit shown by the student body has a great influence on our athletic squads."

After reading my friends letter it only proves that the student body itself can add much to the attitude of a team. But as I said before the other towns have their outside support, which puts an added touch, and which seems to help build up the student spirit as well.

After Saturday nights game, with Hannibal, in which the Smith-Cotton Tigers were set back in their first Central Missouri Conference game—76 to 52—there still is that problem. I can imagine Coach Russ Robinson, of the Tiger Cage men, is starting to wonder about the problem himself and would like to have the answer.

There is no argument with Robinson, his record before coming to Smith-Cotton speaks for itself. He knows his basketball, he can teach it, but it appears what he's teaching isn't sinking in yet. Maybe between now and January 5th, when the Tigers play their next game—incidentally a conference tilt and with Columbia Hickman Kewpies—they may come out of it and start doing something about the big end of the scores instead of the short end.

Several new State records were set in the bowling in Sedalia this year by the visitors, and more could be set today—the final crack at the top positions by 14 visiting teams.

St. Paul's Bluejays Smash
Hubbard's Tigers, 66-46

St. Paul's Bluejays of Concordia took a smashing victory from the Hubbard Tigers, 66-46, Friday night, on the Hubbard hardwood.

Things looked good for the Tigers in the first quarter, even though they were behind one point. The outlook brightened at the half when Hubbard took a three point lead. Then the disaster came. The Bluejays finished the third quarter with 22 big points to three which the Tigers had managed to score. Hubbard was able to pick up a few points in the last quarter, but not enough to make a victory possible.

Ronald Johnson, netted 22 points on ten field goals and two charity tosses to lead the Tigers' scoring. Wolbrecht and Mack both hit the loop for 16 big points to lead the 'Jays scoring.

The Sweet Springs R7 Greyhounds whipped Santa Fe 67-58 at Grand Pass Friday night. The Greyhound "B" team also beat Santa Fe, 34-31.

In the Varsity contest, Jimmie Koch and Jack Hollingsworth were high pointers for Sweet Springs with 18 and 18 point respectively. For Santa Fe, Kelling and Larking were the high pointers with 19 and 17.

In the "B" game, Chuck Dierking was high with 21 for Sweet Springs, while Bellana and Harrison were high for Santa Fe with 13 and eight points respectively.

Gremlins Capture
11th Season Win

The powerful and aggressive Sacred Heart Gremlins captured their 11th win of the season Friday night when they trounced the Cole Camp Bluebirds 61-42 in a non-conference contest at Sacred Heart. The Gremlins have lost five games thus far.

The Bluebirds were whipped on the basis of tremendous Sacred Heart rebounding and some terrific shooting from as far away as half court. Just before the first half ended, for example, Jack Barr lopped is a high and hard shot from the half-court line.

Leonard Butler, "Big John" Herring and Gary Crnic were the tall men under the back-boards for the Gremlins, snagging 29 stray balls for the locals.

The Gremlins were in the lead from the beginning, even though they had to hustle in the first half to stay ahead of the "Birds, who made a determined effort to keep pace.

In the scoring half it seemed the Gremlins could never miss, making points on all over the court. Some Gremlin substitutions were used in the fourth period, and they proved their mettle against the challengers.

Sacred Heart's girls, however, made a less laudible defense of their court, losing to Cole Camp, 44-20. Beth Battles and Linda Redmond were high scorers for the locals with four points each, while Jean Brockman served for six perfect ones to lead Cole Camp.

The Versailles Tigers, sparked by Richard Bolton and Darrell MacMillan, trounced Stover's Bulldogs 62-45 for their fourth straight Tri-County Conference Victory of the season Friday night.

The Tigers, who haven't lost a conference game this season, and dropped only one game, to the School of the Osage Indians, in regular season play, were up to their usual form when they opened the first period with 21 big points. They kept their lead after that, even though Stover put up some resistance in the third period, out-pointing the Tigers in that quarter, 18-17. But it didn't amount to much, and the Tigers capitalized on every opportunity to score.

Big men for the Tigers were Richard Bolton and Darrell MacMillan with 14 and 13 points respectively. George Tankersley was apparently the object of quite a bit of attention from the Bulldogs, being held down to nine points, far below his usual output.

Schackelford was the big man for Stover, dropping in 24 big points to take scoring honors for the evening.

The Tigers also captured the "B" game, 53-41, on the 23-point performance of Fred Brown. High for Stover was J. Walters with 15 points.

Score by quarters:
Versailles ... 12 12 17 12—62
Stover ... 10 8 18 9—45

Individual scoring: Versailles—Richard Bolton, 14; Kent Cable, 7; Ronnie Stephens, 2; George Tankersley, 9; Bill Kauffman, 2; Jim Kennard, 2; Darrell MacMillan, 13; James McKinley, 9; Colon Washburn, 4; Stover—Nolling, 3; Uptegrove, 6; Downing, 3; Schackelford, 24; DeLong, 9.

First Conference Game

Hannibal Trounces S-C Tigers, 76-52

Taller and tougher, Hannibal's Pirates trounced Smith-Cotton's Tigers 76-52 Saturday night, in a game played at Smith-Cotton. It was the Tigers' first CMS conference game. They stand 1-3 for the season.

The Tigers were outpointed from the very beginning. When the whistle announced the end of the first quarter, the Tigers trailed by seven points, and, at the end of the half, Smith-Cotton faced a 19 point deficit.

Larry McCown, Smith-Cotton's 6-foot-1 junior forward, threw in six field goals and three charity tosses to give the Tigers 15 points. Jack Taylor, a 5-foot-7 senior guard, closely followed McCown with 12 markers.

For the game, the Tigers were overshadowed by the Pirates in field goal and free throw performances. The Tigers collected 21 good attempts from the field, and 10 perfect charity tosses. Hannibal, with 31 field goals and 14 free throws, proved too much for the Bengals.

Seemingly not clicking as a team, the Tigers experienced a disastrous third quarter in which they managed to collect only four points while allowing the Pirates to run away with the show—collecting 21.

In that quarter, the Bengals apparently couldn't find the bucket. The Pirates, with a tricky offense that lined up four men along the three-second line, Hansen, tall center for the Pirates, was virtually free to choose his spot on the court and shoot. He generally collected, coming up with 11 tallies from the field and seven from the free-throw line for 29 points.

Hannibal's Valentick, playing at right forward was another big gun for the Pirates, coming across with 15 markers.

In the "B" game, the Pirates slaughtered Smith-Cotton 60-40 in a 29-point showing from McNett. High for the Bengals was Fletcher Gravit with 18.

Syracuse In Come-Back For Bowl Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Syracuse, frustrated for two periods and trailing by two touchdowns, slammed back in the final half on the vicious running of All-America Ernie Davis and the pin-point passing of Dave Sarette Saturday for a 15-14 victory over Miami (Fla.) in the Liberty Bowl football game.

Davis, held to 38 yards in the opening half, carried the Syracuse team on his back on a 42-yard drive in the third period, smashing over for the touchdown from the line.

The second touchdown came on a 7-yard pass from Sarette to his favorite target, halfback Dick Easterly, in the fourth period, culminating a 51-yard march.

Sarette, who outdazzled Miami's celebrated quarterback George Mira with his passing, also hit Easterly for a two-point conversion after the first score.

and Ken Ericson booted the final, clinching extra point from placement, after the second.

Miami had surprised the meager crowd of 15,712 by stopping the great Davis and rushing to an early lead on a 12-yard run in the first period by Jim Vollenweider and a 60-yard punt return in the fading seconds of the opening half by sophomore Nick Spinelli.

Folberg New Head Coach For Texas

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Henry C. (Hank) Folberg, coach of Wichita, was named head coach and athletic director of Texas A&M Saturday, thus returning to the school where he got his start in college football.

The 38-year-old Dallas native was picked to succeed Jim Myers, who spent four frustrating years as headman of the Aggies and who was fired the day after he finished his last season.

Three weeks later Folberg, who played freshman football at A&M in 1941 and then varsity football at West Point, was selected as the best prospect for pulling the Aggies out of the doldrums.

Folberg got a five-year contract at $17,000 a year and will come here to take over after the Sun Bowl game at El Paso, Dec. 30, where his Wichita team plays Villanova.

It was known for days that Folberg would be the new coach but college officials would make no announcement.

A&M was clamping on a strict censorship of the news because of unhappy experiences of four years ago when it filled the job vacated by Bear Bryant. Bryant, who built A&M back to a national power, left to coach Alabama. Duffy Daugherty, Red Sanders, Eddie Erdelatz and Frank Leahy were announced as coach only to have each appointment fizzle out.

Myers first turned down the job then took it upon receiving a long petition from the student body.

Dr. Chris Groneman, chairman of the A&M athletic council, announced the appointment of Folberg, explaining that he had unanimous approval of the recommendation from the college system board of directors.

Folberg will be returning not only to the scene of his first college football but his earliest coaching as well—he was assistant here in 1951 when Ray George was head coach.

He was assistant coach at Florida from 1952 to 1960 and previously had served as assistant at Miami, Baylor, Purdue and Texas A&M.

Increase In Shares Of Common Stock For Ralston Okayed

ST. LOUIS AP—A spokesman for the Ralston Purina Co. announced today the firm's shareholders have approved increasing its authorized common stock from eight million shares to 20 million and a two-for-one stock split.

The action was taken Friday at the annual shareholder's meeting.

The board declared a 20 cent dividend on common stock payable March 12, 1962, to shareholders of record Feb. 19, 1962.

American Skiers Fail To Place in Slalom

VAL D'ISERE, France (AP)—American skiers failed to place among the leaders as Frenchman Adrien Duvalard won the men's slalom at an international ski meet Saturday.

Wallace Bud Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo., the United States' top hopeful finished seventh in the first run. But his bindings came loose on the second run, forcing him to abandon the course.

The best showing by an American was Bill Marolt of Aspen, Colo., who wound up 10th. He was tied in 1:57.19.

Duvalard's combined time for the two runs was 1:51.72. West Germany's Ludwig Leitner was second with 1:53.09 and French skiers took the next five places.

Fight Off Rallies To Beat Bulldogs

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue grabbed an early lead then fought off repeated rallies Saturday and defeated Butler's basketball Bulldogs 65-57 before a capacity crowd in the Boilermaker's palacehouse.

Purdue's All-America Terry Dischinger paced the winners, scoring 25 points.

The aggressive Bulldogs took an early 3-1 lead but Purdue went around at 7-5 and the losers never regained the lead, but Butler whittled it down to 32-27 by intermission.

THEY BOWL 300 GAMES—The Hillcrest Lanes, the past week saw two perfect games rolled on their lanes in bowling, the one game every bowler hopes to get, the "Big 300." Monday morning Donnie Delph, right, hit the first "300" bowling on lanes five and six, while Mark Chandler, left, Grandview, Mo., who just stopped in for some practice lines hit his "300" Thursday afternoon on lane seven. Incidentally it was his seventh perfect game since he began bowling about seven years ago. (Democrat-Capital photo)

Negroes March and Sing

More Than 230 Are Arrested in Albany

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—More than 230 marching, singing Negroes were arrested Saturday as they staged their fifth antisegregation demonstration in the last five days. Among those arrested was Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. of Atlanta, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

The march, which began at Shiloh Baptist church in the Negro residential section of the city, followed a breakdown in biracial negotiations in this southern Georgia city.

As the marchers reached the edge of the Negro housing area, they were met by a loudspeaker truck. Police Chief Laurie Pritchett took the microphone and asked the marchers: "Do you have a permit for this parade?"

King, who was in the front rank of the marchers responded: "We are only going to City Hall to pray."

Pritchett responded: "You are all under arrest."

The Negroes continued toward City Hall, flanked on both sides by dozens of city and state policemen. They were herded into an alley behind City Hall, where police began booking them.

Mayor Asa Kelley said the Negroes would be charged with holding a parade without a permit.

Dr. W.G. Anderson, president of the Albany Movement, had called for renewal of the protest marchers after he said Negro leaders had been rebuffed in their attempt to renew negotiations with city officials.

Negotiations between representatives of the city government and the Negro leaders broke down when the City Commission charged the Negroes with failing to observe the terms of a two-day truce.

Mayor Kelly, solemn-faced and weary from long hours of discussion, read the commission's statement to newsmen.

accident and he went immediately to the scene.

Two Airmen from the base who arrived on the scene a few seconds after it occurred were credited with administering first aid to the injured and assist with the injured men until ambulances arrived from the base. They were members of the Field Maintenance Squadron and identified as A-1C Charles W. Brown and A-3C Larry Lunsford.

The dead youth and Airman Chandler were members of the Combat Defense Squadron, while S-Sgt. Beeks, Airman Wells and Airman Etter were members of the Organizational Maintenance Squadron at the base.

• Circuit Court

Patricia DeWitt was granted a divorce from John E. DeWitt in Circuit Court, Dec. 16. Earl T. Crawford was the attorney for the plaintiff.

• Police Court

Charles Hoehns, Route 2, charged with assault with his hands, on complaint of Ada Marie Hoehns, pleaded guilty and was fined $10.

Jim Cooney, 721 West Fourth, charged with parking on the wrong side of the street, failed to appear and his $2 bond was ordered forfeited.

• Police Reports

Beth Guernsey, 56 Chadwick Place, Glen Rock, N.J., reported the loss of a grey and white week-end suitcase to Sedalia Police Friday evening. According to police, the loss was first noticed at about 4:30 p.m. If the suitcase is found, Miss Guernsey may be contacted at 612 South Park.

The suitcase reportedly contained text books and notes.

Police received a call at 11:08 p.m. Friday to the East End Tavern, Fifth and Engineer, where a car had been reportedly broken into.

Investigating officers found a 1954 Ford automobile belonging to William Alfred Birge, 1400 East Fourth, had been entered while the vehicle was parked at the rear of the tavern.

Missing, according to the owner, were: one black suit, one white shirt, three pairs of trousers, one light sport coat, three neckties, cuff links, house keys and a checkbook.

Birge told police the car was locked. However, officers noted no signs of forced entry.

A gum ball machine located in front of the Patterson department store on Ohio avenue was dragged into an alley just north of the store and the glass was broken early Saturday morning. Police discovered the broken machine at 1:15 a.m.

Margaret Hammond, 1909 South Sneed, reported the loss of a pink billfold Friday night in the vicinity of the Woolworth store on Ohio avenue. She told police the wallet contained her driver's license, other identification papers and about $35 to $40 in cash.

Proper Ice Thawing

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—If you thaw ice from sidewalks or other areas where there is grass or trees, an expert says you should use salt-type fertilizers rather than salt.

"The fertilizers work in the same way that salt does, and will not damage the lawn or trees," says Ray A. Keen of the department of horticulture at Kansas State University. "In addition there is the added bonus of a fertilizer application."

Keen suggests any salt-type fertilizer, such as ammonium nitrate or sodium nitrate. Garden supply and other dealers handle that type.

Smith-Cotton Mixed Chorus Will Present Portion of 'Messiah'

The Smith-Cotton High School Mixed Chorus will present the Christmas portion of Handel's "Messiah" Tuesday night, December 19, at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

This will be the second annual presentation of the well-known and loved oratorio. The chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Carl Schrader, is composed of approximately seventy voices. Soloists for the evening will include Jill Ragland, Marilyn Lowe, Mildred Reed and Dolly Alexander; soprano, Lorine Heuerman; alto, Mike Jonson, tenor; Dale Herick, baritone; and Gary Wahrenbrock, bass. Accompanist for the evening will be Mildred Reed and Barbara Lanpher.

The stage setting is being constructed by Miss Gwendolyn Tuck and the S-C Art Department and Emerson Matthews and Gerhart Jaeger and the stage crew.

Admission to the program will be free, and the public is cordially invited.

Safety Council Estimates Yule Holiday Deaths

CHICAGO (AP)—Five hundred persons may die in traffic accidents during the coming Christmas holiday period.

This was the estimate today by the National Safety Council.

The council estimated that 23,000 persons may suffer injury in accidents within the 78-hour period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight, Monday, Dec. 25.

During a similar period last year, 488 persons died in traffic accidents, 77 in fires and 82 deaths were recorded in miscellaneous categories.

The council also estimated that nearly all of the nation's 76 million motor vehicles will be on the roads at some time during the holiday. It estimated 6.2 billion miles would be traveled by these vehicles.

Does History Forecast Another Pearl Harbor?

EDITOR'S NOTE: Was an undeclared war by Russia foreseen by the American geopolitical genius Homer Lea more than 50 years ago, long before the Red Revolution?

On the 20th anniversary of the Japanese attack upon Pearl Harbor—plunging the U.S. into a war Lea had foreseen as inevitable—Joshua B. Powers, an experienced international journalist, has gone to Lea's books and papers, of which he has custody, seeking the answers.

They merit careful examination.

By JOSHUA B. POWERS

Written for the Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Fifty years after the death of that strange American genius, Homer Lea, many of the disasters he foresaw as a result of weakness and indecision in Anglo-Saxon leadership have already overtaken mankind. Order continues to break down in the world and the enemies of Britain and America grow stronger.

Homer Lea was five feet tall, a hunchback and ill most of his life until his death at 36. But he had an extraordinary mind and a Biblical sense of the destiny of nations.

"This man knows more about politics than any cabinet officer now in favor," wrote Nicolai Lenin in 1912, the year of Lea's death.

What Lea told the Anglo-Saxons in his two books seems not to have been heeded. But German officers were instructed to study them. The Japanese consumed 40,000 copies. And Lenin apparently concluded that the future policy of Red Russia was to continue the Tsarish Empires policy of expansion.

World war began in 1914 as foreseen by Lea, and it continues to the present. The Monroe Doctrine has withered and the Western Hemisphere is falling apart. Russian policy seems headed toward the "dreaded dreihund" consisting of Russia, Germany and Japan, which Lea foresaw as their ultimate policy and discussed before the same conclusions were put forth by Hitler and the Nazi geopolitical Haushofer.

Lea wrote his first book, "The Valor of Ignorance" in 1909. His second was "The Day of the Saxon," written in 1912 at Nanking. His third which never got beyond the note stage was to have been "The Swarming of the Slav."

Each nation builds its own monuments and writes its own epitaphs," said Lea. It was to examine the monuments and consider the epitaphs still unwritten that he undertook during the years just prior to World War I to study the strength of the defenses of the United States and Britain had prepared against the wars he thought inevitable.

As an end result of these wars he believed the last and greatest war for the U. S. and Great Britain might come — their war against Russia.

Lea left Stanford University in 1899 to help "topple the Manchus from their ancient dragon throne." This 90-pound flame of a man burned with the desire to play a personal part on the world stage he had been studying.

As he sailed through the Golden Gate he remembered Rudyard Kipling's comment on San Francisco "what a wonderful place to loot!" During a year or more of military adventure and strategic thinking in China and Japan he realized more fully how weak were the defenses of America.

At an age when most young men were still in college he thought much of war and believed both the U. S. and Britain were marching into an unhappy century. Both nations were proud of material progress. "But belief in the potency of gold is not new," said this 24-year-old. "Opulence instead of being the foundation of national strength is liable to be the most potent factor in its destruction. . . War between wealth and military energy has but one end, the old doom of the Purple Persian.

"That the British Empire and the United States should adhere together in political unity and should establish not only Anglo-Saxon domination but Anglo-Saxon liberties and principles is self evident," Lea wrote. (It is easy to trace the effect of Lea's thinking in the views of his admirer, Winston Churchill.)

Homer Lea's military role in China was short lived. A price of $10,000 was put upon his head. He escaped to Japan.

He learned at first hand from some of the participants facts about the struggle for China in Russia, Japan and others were active and in which the United States played the part of a peace-loving but not quite reliable uncle.

The more he learned of Japan, the more concerned he became because of the military weakness of his own country. He began to collect materials for what gradually grew into "The Valor of Ignorance." The purpose of the book was to show the unfilled gaps in our defense system. He argued that war with Japan was probable and that the U.S. might be severely hurt.

Reception of the book was mixed. In the U.S. the Hearst newspapers raised a scandal over "the yellow peril." The exile Lenin studied it in Switzerland. British military leaders asked Lea to write a similar book on the British Empire. This he did, "The Day of the Saxon." It sought a renaissance of the Saxon race "before their day is finally done."

Lea became more and more conscious of a dark Russian cloud forming over the world. He began to collect notes for "The Swarming of the Slav."

During these years Lea worked with Chinese reformers including Dr. Sun Yat-sen. He created an organization in California to train young Chinese as officers against the Manchus.

A few months after their arrival in China, Homer Lea was dead of a variety of ailments and Dr. Sun was deeply involved in problems with the Russians, Japanese and above all, the British, who should have been his allies. If the British had listened to their soldiers instead of their bankers, Sun Yat-sen said he never would have called on the Russians for help as he did after about 10 years of patient negotiations.

Just before he died, Lea's interest in Russian aggression was greatly sharpened. Letters and notes he wrote then reveal this line of thought.

The British did not listen to Lea. They were confident in their Empire and in their home island, protected by their great navy and economic supremacy. Nevertheless the wars came and continue to come. World order, established through centuries of positive policy, began to break down and is still breaking down.

The Slav is indeed swarming. Called communism, the reality of Russian expansionism continues. "The expansion of Russia," wrote Lea, "has been the ruthless exemplification of a predetermined plan."

Today he could add: "... a plan adopted by the new Soviet oligarchy and followed with greater skill."

If, as it appears, Soviet Russia has so far followed its "predetermined plan," does it also agree with another assertion by Lea that "when a nation does not initiate war it commits its first error against the principle of military science?"

"So essential is this principle of initiation to success in warfare," Lea asserted, "that within the last 200 years (before 1910) there is no instance where sufficient warning has been given that permitted the enemy to undertake military preparation. "The necessity of a declaration of war is only a modern illusion. . . During the last two centuries we have less than 10 cases where prior to the regular commencement of hostilities. . . During the same period we have 111 cases where war was begun without any notification."

Is this a warning left by Homer Lea to alert the West against a sneak attack by Russia? If so it is somewhat comforting to know that President Kennedy is no stranger to Lea's writings.

CHURCHILL ON LEA
Of Homer Lea's "The Day of the Saxon" Sir Winston Churchill said: "A great and prophetic book. I read it in 1912. It said that we should be fighting again on the fields of Flanders. I did not believe it then, but we have fought there twice since."

Like Sir Winston, the British nation rejected Lea's look into the future, based on neglected defenses.

NAMED IN SECURITIES VIOLATION—T. Lamar Caudle of Wadesboro, N.C., one-time Department of Justice official who served a prison term in a tax evasion case, has been named as one of the promoters of a film charged with violation of the New York securities law. The promoters of the movie about the life of St. Patrick were directed to appear in Supreme Court with their books and records.

Bea Johnson To Speak At Sorosis Meet

Bea Johnson, Kansas City, a well-known and outstanding speaker with an important message will talk at Sorosis Monday afternoon at Heard Memorial Club House on the subject: "The Russian Rulers Tell Me."

Miss Johnson was the first American woman ever to talk to Khrushchev and other Russian leaders and has conferred with them as well as leaders of other countries many times. Her talks on Russia are of great interest revealing many things about the Russian situation.

The speaker is a person of real ability and charm and has been a guest speaker in Sedalia before. She spoke at Sorosis once and also the Business and Professional Women's Club at one of its public affairs banquets several years ago, this being always the one special banquet of the year to which members of other organizations are invited.

Mrs. John Herring, art and drama chairman, will introduce the speaker.

Sedalia Bank's New Addition Finished

The addition to the Sedalia Bank and Trust Company has been completed and, in addition to the extra space, will provide customers with two more drive-in windows, making a total of three windows.

Designed by Sammons and Butler, architects, the extension at the rear of the building is 30 by 44 feet, constructed of brick veneer and concrete walls, and is one story with full basement. The concrete floor has steel bar joist and the roof is of steel decking with built-up roofing.

A new private office for the president, J. J. McGrath, has walnut paneling with a rest room on the east side. It is directly back of the room which was formerly McGrath's office and the board room, will now be used as the board room.

The large additional room in which some of the employees will work has a row of windows on the south, the plastered walls are light green and the tile flooring is red. There are new fluorescent light fixtures, too, and the ceiling is of acoustical tile.

On the west side of the room are a few steps up to the platform to the drive-in window which works automatically. The steel deposit receiver extends out as far as needed depending on the distance of the car from the window, and is then brought back to the counter beneath the solid glass window to the teller who gives the customer the service desired.

The new basement which is under the entire new section of the building, gives much added space for records and files, and leads, by a winding steel stairway at the end of a tunnel under the driveway, to the island in the center of the two-way drive where the second new window is located. The building on the island is also of brick and concrete, and built up roof.

The window, which is exactly like the other, and is the very latest bay type drive-up bank window by Diebold, is on the south of the building.

Because of the Missouri law, which states that the addition must be physically attached to the bank, it was necessary to dig the tunnel under the driveway to the island and the only type stairway that would fit in was the winding steel stairs, which leads directly up into the building and is the only way to get into it. The tunnel, however, is concrete, very much like a hallway and is just as light as the rest of the basement.

The bank will also have added telephones, and a new telephone system is being put in by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., which will now give the bank 11 telephones and three numbers instead of two.

Moon Man Program Is Step Closer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has taken another step in its man-on-the-moon project by awarding a $300-million contract to the Boeing Co. of Seattle.

Boeing's job: To build the main part of the huge Saturn rocket that is to launch a manned U. S. space capsule on a mission to the moon.

The contract, awarded Friday, calls for development and testing of 24 S-1B Saturn main-stage rockets. The S-1B is 33 feet in diameter, 70 to 80 feet tall and will weigh about 5 million pounds.

Aided by two upper stages, it will be able to launch a 40-ton, three-man-Apollo space capsule on a flight around the moon.

If U. S. scientists decide against building the super-giant Nova rocket, the S-1B, in an improved form, would be used for landing three-man crews on the moon.

The Boeing project requires the employment of about 5,000 persons. The project will run through 1966, in line of the goal of a manned landing on the moon before 1970.

Boeing has selected Rocketdyne division of North American Aviation Inc. of Canoga Park, Calif., to assist in developmental ground testing of the rocket stage.

The S-1B will be assembled at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's plant at Michoud, La., under direction of the agency's Marshall space flight center at Huntsville, Ala.

New Business Grows Out of Basement

CLEAN-UP WORK—Letha Punnill works on a ceramic piece in the greenware stage. The ridges caused by molds are removed with special tools and sandpaper after the item has been permitted to dry for several hours. While in the greenware stage, items are very delicate and too much pressure or rough handling is disastrous.

Ceramic Firm In Growth

Scott Crawford's Specialty Shop In Business Boom

By W. D. Hill

THE STORY of the business that began in a basement is an old one but it's ones that hasn't been told here for some time.

The latest basement business to move out because of growth belongs to Scott Crawford and is located at 1419 Wilkerson. Known as "Scotty's Specialty Works," the firm is manufacturing ceramic items.

Since moving above ground last May, Crawford is turning out 100 artistic pieces each day and continued growth is seen. The firm is now shipping and selling its ware in Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Wisconsin, Illinois and Missouri.

Crawford describes his ware as being among the finest on the market. "We are not making dime store items," he said. "Our product is for the most discreet people and only the finer jewelry and furniture stores are carrying our line." One local store carries the "Scotty" line.

Touring the plant, Crawford pointed out all of the care that goes into making his ceramic items such as extreme care in removing mold lines and rejecting imperfect items.

Picking up two pieces ready for shipment, Crawford banged them together almost as if one would two rocks. "They are as close to bone china as we can get," he said, adding: "Most ceramic items would never stand up under that kind of treatment."

He said each piece was fired three times in one of the three kilns in the shop and that the firing temperatures ranged from 1,800 to 2,300 degrees, depending on whether it was greenware (first firing) bisque (second firing) or glaze (third firing).

All of the work is done in the shop from molding to cleaning up the greenware, glazing and firing. Crawford said the giant rooster, known as Gorgeous George, which is the predominant item in the accompanying pictures, retails for $29.95 and it is his most popular item.

While Crawford is on the road Mrs. Crawford supervises operation of the shop. About three to four days of the week Crawford is making calls in the eight state area in his car loaded with items to fill his customer's orders as sales dictate.

The shop currently has 43 different items on its manufacturing list and additional molds are being added regularly. Crawford said, and he is wondering how long his present location is going to be able to accommodate the shop's growth.

Emphasizing that he is not licensed to retail items, Crawford said visitors were always welcome to tour the shop and view the fascinating artistic work going on there.

deep. "I like this place because it is like being at the prow of ship coming into New York—high up and the city spread below."

When the show was finished, Chevalier flew back to London, where for four months he has been performing in "The Castaways," a Walt Disney movie adaptation of a Jules Verne story. "And then," said Chevalier, "back home to Paris for a rest, thank God."

THE PROCESS OF FORMING A CERAMIC PIECE—Lloyd Gehlken demonstrates in this series of pictures the method used to cast a ceramic item. From the left, Gehlken pours the liquid clay material called "slip" into molds. After it sets for a period long enough for the porous plaster of paris to absorb water causing the item to form inside the mold, the excess slip is poured off. After a brief waiting period half of the mold can be removed. It is then allowed to become a little firmer before the item is removed. The end result can be seen as Gehlken removes an item from the kiln after being fired at 2,300 degrees three times. Colored glaze and all the clean-up work, however, comes between the third and fourth pictures. (Democrat-Capitol photos)

DISPLAYS FINISHED ITEMS—Mrs. Scott Crawford, whose husband owns and operates Scotty's Specialty Works, displays some of the items turned out in the shop.

GLAZING—Pearl Rumsey brushes glaze on an item in the bisque stage (after it has been fired). There are four employees in the shop besides Mr. and Mrs. Crawford and about 100 items are turned out daily, according to Crawford.

Navy Building New Defenses

By TOM NOLAN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — Guided missile destroyers for the defense of convoys and aircraft carriers are coming off the assembly lines to complement the offensive Polaris submarines.

Five of the heaviest, longest, widest, fastest and most powerful destroyers ever built already have been commissioned by the Navy. The latest, the $60 million USS Lynde McCormick, recently got its first top brass inspection at the Navy Weapons Plant dock in Washington.

The McCormick, equipped with two separate guided missile systems, Asroc and Tartar, theoretically is a triple threat capable of carrying on simultaneous action against sea, air and land weapons.

The Asroc anti-submarine missile can outdistance any sub torpedo in existence today. Designed with a long-range sonar system and rocket propulsion, the missile can separate from its rocket motor and airframe in the air and plunge into the sea to drop a depth charge and a torpedo which homes in on the target. It is fired from a box-like launcher amidships.

Tartar anti-aircraft missile, 15 feet long weighing 1,200 pounds, is capable of destroying supersonic fighters and bombers. With its dual-thrust motor, auxiliary power supply and a warhead, it can be launched and accelerated from the ship's stern with a high thrust for a short duration. Then it can shift to low thrust for long duration and maintain supersonic speed until target interception.

The missile, equipped with its own electronic guidance system, can follow its nose to the target instead of depending on a ground-based radar beam. Tartar missiles are packed like Coke bottles in a loader below deck. The loader spins like a cylinder in a revolver, ramming two missiles at a time vertically onto twin launchers.

Both Asroc and Tartar are operated from a Combat Information Center which integrates detection, tracking, display and weapons direction information.

The McCormick also carries ASW short-range torpedoes. Two fully automatic, 5-inch guns round out her fire umbrella. Comdr. Ernest S. Cronwall Jr., the McCormick's skipper, says: "As far as weapons are concerned, this baby's got just about everything." So the McCormick can be used on offense or defense.

The Navy plans to commission 21 more guided missile destroyers. Several already are under construction. Beside McCormick, Adams, King, Sampson and Wilson already have been commissioned.

McCormick, primarily made of comparatively light aluminum and magnesium, has twin rudders which provide exceptional maneuverability for a ship of that size. The ship can reach a speed "far in excess of 30 knots."

Maurice Is Taking Look Into Future

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "I would like to concentrate on becoming a good new sort of actor," said the white-haired man with the enthusiasm of a teen-ager. "And to do good, warm TV shows not too often—perhaps twice a year."

The man planning a new career for himself was Maurice Chevalier, 73, already well launched on a new tangent of a theatrical career that started 62 years ago.

"In 'Fanny' for the first time I did a character far away from Maurice Chevalier," said the performer, referring to the motion picture hit in which he neither sang nor wore a straw hat. "I think it was a good character and I found it enjoyable to create a man with a personality not my own. I have always played myself, and I think to add another character to that Chevalier foundation would make an interesting personality—no?"

Chevalier was in New York on one of the flying trips he makes several times a year to star in a television show. This one is NBC's "The Broadway of Lerner and Loewe," taped now for broadcast on Feb. 11. Chevalier was a smash in "Gigi," the motion picture written by the composing team of Allen Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe, who also wrote "My Fair Lady," "Brigadoon" and "Camelot."

During his stay Chevalier lived in a suite atop a mid-town hotel. I saw him on an unseasonably warm winter's day and energetic, vigorous Chevalier was pacing up and down on a penthouse terrace singing the lyrics of Lerner-Loewe songs and admiring the view.

"It's a view," he said, breathing

Wake---The Forgotten Island

By JIM DOWNING
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WAKE ISLAND — With the Rising Sun beginning to shed its glow on some unlikely spots in the Far East and "incidents" sending seismic tremors across the Pacific, the U.S. Navy, early in 1941, decided Wake Island would be a fine place to fix up an air base.

The Marines, Seabees and civilian construction crews came in to scrape at the coral, put up some buildings and erect the air base. The job was half done when, on Monday morning, Dec. 8, 1941, at breakfast, word came that the Japanese had attacked Pearl Harbor, 2,000 miles east across the international dateline where it still was Dec. 7. The 1,731 Americans on Wake knew they had had it.

They had, in fact, until 11:58 a.m. to load up what guns they had, gas up and deploy the dozen fighter planes, dig trenches and generally batten down the hatches.

The Japanese bombers came in low and plastered the place in a personal salute from the Emperor. Sure, they took Wake, finally. But the price paid was fantastic, considering what they got.

For 16 days, the Japanese threw everything they could muster against Maj. James P. S. Devereux' 378 Marines, Major Paul A. Putman's 60-man Marine Sq., Cmdr. W. S. Cunningham's 72 Navy men, Capt. Henry Wilson's handful of Army communications men and Dan Teters' construction gang of 1,146.

In those 16 days, the Japanese lost — by their own admission — 11 ships, 29 airplanes and an incredible 5,700 men, either drowned or shot down or killed in combat.

When Devereux surrendered after a missive landing, our losses were a dozen planes and 96 men.

If you're like me, 20 years later, you get off your trans-Pacific airplane and you feel the goose pimples, a jump in the throat, a sting in the eye. Wake Island . . . "the enemy has landed and the situation is in doubt . . ." That was Cunningham.

Is there a monument marking, for the thousands upon thousands of trans-Pacific tourists, the fact that this indeed is hallowed ground?

Going through the air terminal, turning right past the cluster of terminal and service buildings and walking a few hundred feet, to the fork in the road will reveal a "monument."

A pitiful pile of coral surmounted by the prop and engine cowling of off an F4F, flanked by a pair of wooden signboards and partly overgrown by the mesquite-type island brush. A tiny bronze plaque is corroded and slightly askew.

Someone has tried. Someone with the proper respect, if somewhat lacking in education. The plaque was donated by a Tacoma "foundry," the sign reveals.

The fading signs hail the defenders and note that the prop and speeding are from Capt. Henry T. Elrod's last Marine fighter plane, crash-landed after attacking a Japanese destroyer.

His bones are somewhere hereabouts possibly, because he died in hand-to-hand combat the day before the surrender.

Hank Elrod, his last plane lying in wreckage, crouching in a slit trench somewhere here on the night of Dec. 21 with a rifle in his hand, almost certainly would have laughed at the thought of a monument as he looked at the stars for the last time.

Today, even with a modicum of modern conveniences, plenty of food and water, movies every night and cold beer at the "Drifters Reef," Wake is a lousy place to live and work.

Wake is a three-square-mile conglomerate of three islands, roughly V-shaped.

Wreckage strewn the south shore, especially in the area where the rusting hull of a Japanese supply ship Suwa Maru lies beached—what is left of it after the typhoon of 1952 that swept the island almost clean of man's handiwork.

The sun beats down and suddenly rains slash across. For the 1,500 permanent inhabitants—military, civilian and Federal Aviation Agency personnel—it is a life of deadly monotony, to be endured while the bonus pay bankroll builds up to make it partly worthwhile.

Wake's 8,500 concrete aircraft a month, but its doom is easy to foresee. Today, it is mostly the piston-engineered craft of poor, old make-do MATS and snooty Pan American which slant in over the lagoon and settle down on Capt. Sam Wake's island to refuel. The jets, replacing the old craft need no stepping stones, no refueling havens.

So someday, this island may fade into obscurity without even leaving a decent monument to remember the dead in its ironic wake.

Church Links Congregation Through Mail

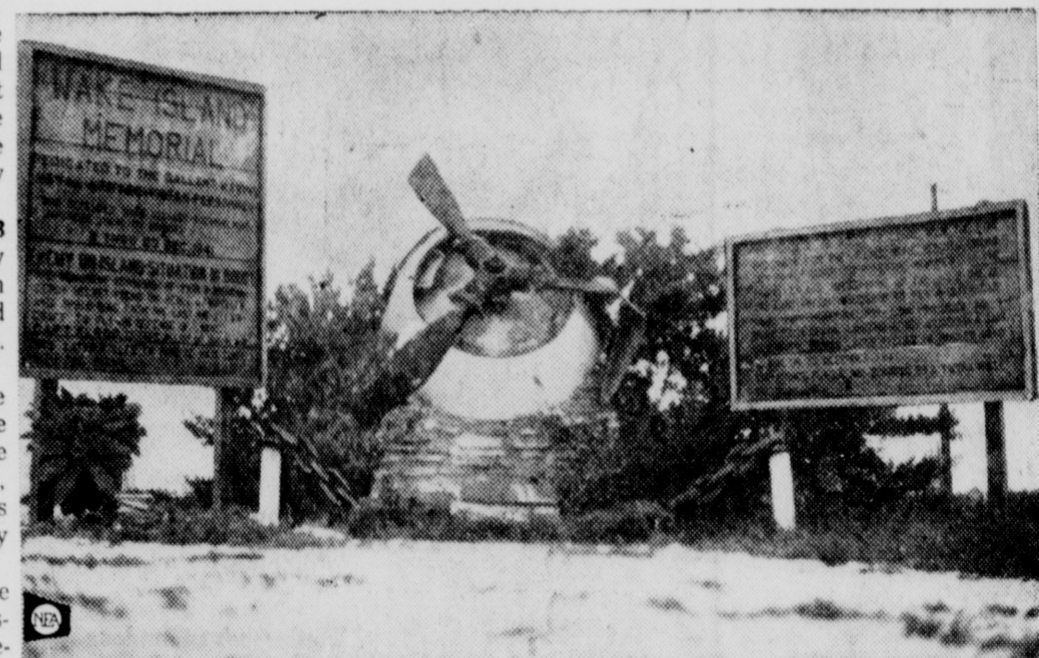

BOSTON (AP)— Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Pitts of Big Lake, Alaska, located above the Arctic Circle, are members of the congregation of a Boston church.

The Pitts family is among more than 4,000 members of the Unitarian Universalist Church of the Larger Fellowship, which has a congregation scattered across the United States and 62 foreign countries.

There is no church building. Most of the members have never met the Rev. George N. Marshall, spiritual counselor of the church.

A packet of church material, including a sermon, mailed twice a month to members of the congregation is the only contact most of them have with their church.

The Rev. Mr. Marshall said membership in his church appeals to persons "who live where there is no one with whom they can share beliefs, converse freely, and exchange ideas." The Rev. Mr. Marshall's mail, he said, covers an endless variety of topics, including questions of theology, family relationships, books and education.

Camile Demmitt Becomes Bride Of W. Williams

Saturday evening, Dec. 9, The Cedars on Highway 50, a mile south of Highburg, was the scene of the marriage of Miss Camile Demmitt, Kansas City, and Mr. Winfred Williams, Kansas City. The Rev. DeLong, pastor of the California Christian Church, performed the candlelight ceremony in a setting of white gladioli, carnations, pompons and greenery.

The Cedars is the home of Mrs. Oscar W. Rathel, aunt of the bride.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. A. A. Francis.

Mrs. Bert Francis, cousin of the bride, served as matron of honor. Mr. Bert Francis, cousin of the bride, served the groom as best man. Ushers were, Mr. Wade Williams, Mr. Bud Rathel and Mr. Warren Hunt.

The bride wore a short champagne satin wedding gown. Her short veil was studded with sequins. She carried a bouquet of white orchids.

The mother of the bride wore a blue gown of French lace and a shoulder corsage of pink carnations.

Out of town guests were, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Camperville, Kansas City, Miss Kathy Francis, of Columbia, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Francis, St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Rathel and daughter, Sharon, Jefferson City.

At the wedding supper Mrs. Rathel was assisted by Mrs. Bud Rathel, Jefferson City, Miss Kathy Francis, Columbia, Wade Williams, Kansas City, Mrs. Lloyd Roark, Clarksburg, and Mrs. Bert Francis, St. Louis.

The bride and groom are honeymooning in Nassau.

The couple will make their home in Kansas City.

Wilson, Jean Johnson, Jean Blackwell, Valerie Carvein, Margaret Ann Guise, Mrs. James Houx, Kathy Wahlers, Mrs. Harry Wahlers and Mrs. Carlton Kelley.

Miss Betty Allee Becomes Bride Of Mr. James Kueffer

At half past two o'clock in the afternoon Sunday, Dec. 3, at the Methodist Church in California, Miss Betty Allee became the bride of Mr. James Kueffer. The Rev. H. Jared Taylor performed the impressive double ring ceremony in a setting of white gladioli, mums and pompons and seven branch candelabras.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Othor Allee, California, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kueffer, California.

Mr. E. E. Todd, California, played traditional wedding selections on the organ.

The bride wore a street length white satin brocade dress with three quarter length sleeves and a fitted bodice accented with a soft round neckline. A short circular veil attached to a white satin pillbox hat furnished the headpiece. She carried a bouquet of red roses with white streamers.

Miss Carol Kueffer, California, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. She wore a street length dress of red velvet with three quarter length sleeves, fitted bodice and scalloped neckline. Her headpiece was of matching red velvet. She carried a white carnation bouquet with red streamers.

Mr. Bob Kueffer, California, served as best man.

The mother of the bride chose

Mrs. James Kueffer

a black wool dress with a white carnation corsage. The groom's mother wore a blue rayon dress and a white carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Brown Derby Dining Room with approximately 45 guests attending.

The bride's table held a three tier wedding cake topped with wedding bells. On each side of the cake were lighted white tapers in crystal holders.

Servers were, Mrs. Marion Dorn, California, Mrs. Ann Lenz, California, and Mrs. Nina Williamson, Kansas City. Miss Sandy Allee, California, had charge of the guest book.

After the reception the couple left for a trip through southern Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma. For traveling, the bride wore a red and black wool plaid suit and a red rose corsage.

They are making their home in Kansas City.

The bride graduated from the California High School and is presently employed by the Highway Department.

Knob Noster School Plans Music Program

The Knob Noster High School will present its musical program of Christmas music on Dec. 21 in the high school auditorium.

Under the direction of James Appleberry numbers will feature the band, the boys glee club, the girls glee club, the choir, solos and ensemble groups.

The public is invited.

Wesley WSCS Holds Regular Meet Thursday

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Wesley Methodist Church held its regular meeting Thursday at the church. Quiet music with Mrs. S. M. Glass at the piano opened the worship service with Mrs. Tom Norris acting as chairman.

An interesting Christmas program was presented with Mrs. Irvin Lehmer and Mrs. Royce Garmon in charge. While Mrs. Garmon told of Christmas cards in other countries, huge Christmas cards, which were made by Circle 8, were displayed by the following, Mrs. George Theobald, Mrs. Don Parman, Mrs. Frances Cotton, Mrs. Clinton Campbell, Mrs. David Eisenstein, Mrs. Charles Verts, Mrs. I. H. Lehmer, Mrs. Fred Hill and Mrs. Jim Cline. Mrs. I. H. Lehmer read the scripture and closed with prayer. Special Christmas music was sung by Mrs. George Lovercamp and Mrs. M. O. Stevens.

Mrs. Myron Linquist, president, conducted the business meeting and committee chairmen gave their reports. Mrs. R. M. Stoner reminded the group of the Latin America Mission festival to be held in January with Mrs. Walter Niles and Mrs. Harry Linstrom in charge.

Circle 2 chairman, Mrs. Von Baale announced their group would go caroling and help with the fruit plates. It was voted to send a subscription of the "To-gether" magazine to the Bothwell Hospital.

White Christmas will be Dec. 17 and the baskets will be made up and delivered the following week.

Closing meditations were given by Mrs. Betty Belt. Greeters were Mrs. Harry Burford and Mrs. Charles McPheson.

Luncheon was served by Circle 6. Mrs. James Harvey and committee.

Open House Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Wear, Sr., Ottumwa, will be honored guests at an open house to be held Dec. 23 at the Ottumwa Presbyterian Church from 2 until 5 p.m. on their 50th Wedding Anniversary.

Friends and relatives are invited. No gifts.

Mrs. Larry Fred Wahlers

Vows of Miss Carolyn Kelley, Mr. Larry Wahlers Solemnized

In a candlelight service at eight o'clock Saturday evening, Dec. 2, Miss Carolyn Adella Kelley and Mr. Larry Fred Wahlers were united in marriage by the Rev. J. R. Wallace. The double ring ceremony was performed at the First Baptist Church amid palms and all white and green arrangements of gladioli and mums.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton L. Kelley, 1820 West 11th, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wahlers, 920 South Merriam.

Mrs. Helen Williams, 644 East Tenth, played "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," "The Sunshine of Your Smile," "I'll Walk Beside You," "O Perfect Love" and "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden" preceding the ceremony. During the ceremony Mrs. Williams played "At Dawning."

She also accompanied Mrs. Charles O'Dell, 623 West Seventh, who sang "With This Ring I Thee Wed" and Mr. Larry S. Owen, 647 East Ninth, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" at the close of the ceremony.

Miss Joyce Settles, Kansas City, and Miss Jeanne Ennis, Kansas City, lighted the candles. They wore costumes identical in color and design to that of the honor attendant. Each carried a white taper with a remarkable corsage of white poms and white satin showers.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a wedding gown of chalk white peau de soie. Fashioned with a rounded neckline and wrist length sleeves, the slender bodice was highlighted by a plastron of Alencon lace. The bouffant skirt with its wide chapel train was finished at the back with a great Victorian bustle. A coronet of Alencon lace edged with pearls held her short pouf of silk illusion. She carried a cascade of white poms and Frenched mums adorned with glacier ivy and white satin shower.

Mrs. Larry S. Owen, 647 East Ninth, sister of the bride, who served as matron of honor, wore a ballerina length dress of emerald green velvet. The fitted bodice was styled with bracelet sleeves and a scoop neckline which formed a V in back. Above the full gathered skirt, a narrow cording of velvet circled the waist and ended with a flat bow. Her headdress was a bandeau of emerald velvet with a short brush veil and her satin slippers were tinted in the same color.

The bridesmaid, Miss Mary Jeanne Batchelor, Jefferson City, wore a costume identical in color and style to that of the honor attendant. The two attendants carried matching cascades of white poms with glacier ivy and white satin bows.

Serving the groom as best man was Mr. Perry Fairfax, Sedalia, with Mr. Thomas L. Herrick, Sedalia, acting as groomsmen. Mr. Sam Fine, Sedalia, Mr. Arthur Bethke, Sedalia, Mr. James Matija, Warrensburg, and Mr. Larry Owen, Sedalia, performed the ushering duties.

The bride's mother chose a winter white wool sheath with green and gold accessories and a corsage of white Frenched mums with white wedding bells and gold tie.

The mother of the groom wore a black crepe sheath with white accessories and a white Frenched mum corsage with white wedding bells and white trim.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church basement.

On the bride's table the three-tier wedding cake was garlanded with white poms and plumosis fern. Arrangements of white gladioli and mums carried out the theme in the background.

Servers at the bride's table were Miss Jeanne Ennis, Kansas City, and Miss Joyce Settles, Kansas City. Miss Kathy Wahlers, 920 South Merriam, sister of the groom, had charge of the guest book. Mrs. Sam Fine, Sedalia, was at the gift table.

After the reception the couple left for a short honeymoon. For traveling, the bride chose a black wool sheath with gold and black accessories and a corsage of white poms and white Frenched mums adorned with white wedding bells.

The couple is now at home at 1314 North El Camino Real, Apt. 3, San Clemente, Calif.

The bride graduated from Smith-Cotton High School and attended Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, where she is a member of Delta Zeta social sorority.

The groom is a Smith-Cotton High School graduate and attended Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, where he is a member of Phi Sigma Epsilon social fraternity. He is presently stationed at Camp Pendleton, Calif., with the U. S. Marine Corps.

On Friday evening, Dec. 1, a rehearsal dinner was held at Flat Creek Inn by the bride's parents.

Women's Guild Of Church Has Mission Study

The Women's Guild of Immanuel United Church of Christ (Evangelical and Reformed) met on Thursday at 11 a. m. for Mission Study.

The luncheon was served by Mrs. Harley Vaughan, Mrs. Russell Sharpe, Mrs. R. R. Ramlow, Mrs. Roger Hill, Mrs. Harry Williams and Mrs. Joseph Wolfrum.

Mrs. Armin Klemme gave the devotional. She also passed out slips of paper and every one signed up for a prayer pal. The names of the 1961 prayer pals were revealed.

The worship service was led by Mrs. Eldon Leiter. The dedication of the offering was given by Mrs. Melvin Gulick with Mrs. L. W. Satorious at the piano.

A memorial service for those members who have died during the past year was led by Mrs. Cloyce Wilson. Those members who have passed away are: Mrs. William Blatterman, Mrs. Sophia Schroeder, Mrs. Otto Aurig and Mrs. Marie Lange.

The Music Department presented a play entitled, "He Knew Not The Hour" was introduced and narrated by Mrs. L. W. Satorious. Those taking part were Mrs. Ernest Liebel, Mrs. Harley Vaughan, Mrs. Irwin Rumpf and Mrs. Armin Klemme.

Mrs. Ernest Liebel, president, presided at the business meeting. She announced that Mrs. Elmer Koch, the regional president of the Women's Guild will give a report on the Quadrennial Meeting she had attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy L. Johnston, formerly of Sedalia, now of Odessa, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Bonita Kay, to Mr. Leland VanMeter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert VanMeter, Odessa. A March wedding is being planned.

Best KC-97 Unit in SAC

Base Refuelers Tops In SAC Bomb-Comp, Sky Shield Exercises

The most victorious team afield in the 340th Bomb Wing is the 340th Air Refueling Squadron commanded by Lt. Col. Joseph J. Young.

Don't ever question a member of the team on its record or you'll get a complete blank. But the mark of a champion is deeply etched in each member of the squadron as it is in the many trophies the squadron has acquired for outstanding operating performances.

This year alone, the squadron established itself as the best KC-97 Refueling Squadron in the Strategic Air Command. Searching the records we find that the squadron prepped for the SAC Combat at Fairchild AFB, Washington, by winning the 17th Air Division for three consecutive years.

While busy competing with other SAC refuelers during the month of September, the squadron also found time to win permanent possession of the 340th Bomb Wing's Flying Safety Trophy. The refuelers won the safety trophy four times during a 12-month period.

Fresh and flushed from accolades earned in the SAC competition, the refueling squadron returned to Whiteman. Less than a month later, the Squadron was taking top honors in Operation Sky Shield II, an air defense exercise.

ARS crews flying sorties from Goose Bay, Labrador, under simulated combat conditions, were awarded the Goose Trophy for their operational excellence during the exercise. The 340th squadron became the first unit in Second Air Force to ever win the coveted refueling award.

Doing the almost impossible with ease, reflects the high degree of training and esprit of the refueling squadron.

Another story which we dug from the squadron's archives involved the heroic and meritorious performance of a crew performing strip alert from a forward base in the United Kingdom.

After being alerted to refuel a lost jet aircraft separated from its formation enroute to the States, a tanker lost all radio communications except an emergency facility.

The story goes that a ground station was contacted on guard channel and the KC-97 crew was informed that the receiver was being vectored to another control point with 45 minutes fuel left.

The crew proceeded outbound on a reciprocal heading to intercept the receiver, but due to weather the jet was unable to descend for a rendezvous.

Taking the situation in hand, the refueling crew established an orbit over a control point and rendezvoused with the jet using another control as a relay station.

At the time the refueling transfer took place, the receiver had eight minutes of fuel remaining.

For the crews heroic performance, they earned the distinction of SAC's Crew of the Month in the "Combat Crew Magazine."

Asked how his squadron maintains such a high state of morale, first sergeant M-Sgt. Robert M. Benson said solemnly "I just don't know."

But a rival first sergeant said enviously, "He knows alright, but he just won't tell."

Flee to West Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Three East German policemen and two military border guards — all armed and uniformed — fled to West Berlin Thursday night.

LOWERING THE BOOM is a routine job with SSgt. Jack R. LaRue. He checks and double-checks his instruments and equipment before taking off. From his belly position in KC-97's tail, he transfers thousands of pounds of fuel on every mission he flies.

QUESTIONING is accomplished in a military manner and answers are snapped back with confidence as pilot Capt. Richard P. Grey grills his boom operator SSgt. Jack R. LaRue on emergency procedures. Behind LaRue on evaluation duty is SSgt. Alfred R. Bosby, another boom operator in the 340th Air Refueling Squadron.

Christmas Program At Hughesville

"Christmas Fun in 91" or "When Grandpa Hung the Holly in His High Button Shoes" will be presented Thursday evening, Dec. 21, at 8 p.m. at the Hughesville School.

The operetta is being directed by Mrs. Bill Bridges, music instructor, and will feature the entire elementary school and the high school mixed chorus.

The public is cordially invited to attend the program.

COMMAND DECISIONS are discussed by 340th Air Refueling Squadron commander Lt. Colonel Joseph J. Young, left, and Captain Charles W. Milne, a squadron navigator. Col. Young's squadron has won 17th Air Division refueling honors for three consecutive years and was judged the best KC-97 Tanker Squadron in SAC in this year's combat competition held in September.

READY FOR TAKE OFF, Co-Pilot 1st Lt. David C. Budge of the 340th Air Refueling Sq. takes a last glance to the rear of the cockpit. ARS crews are constantly flying missions from their home base at Whiteman AFB, to refuel Strategic Air Command aircraft flying missions in the area.

PLOTTING a flight plan 1st Lt. Harold V. Crase concentrates on an overlay with his navigational equipment. Crews of the 340th Air Refueling Squadron must be able to intercept SAC aircraft at special locales with precise timing in order that missions can be flown with exact timing.

Two Singers Enjoying Odd Show Breaks

NEW YORK (A)—Two comely young singers are getting big career breaks in odd turnabout fashion this roadway season.

Each is doing what the other wanted—or expected.

Lee Venora, eager for opera, is winning acclaim as a new leading lady of musical comedy.

Dorothy Coulter, who envisioned just that life, is trilling instead in the Metropolitan Opera at the opposite end of roadway.

Both winsome thrushes have had strangely parallel workouts in music serious and light en route to budding stardom.

Miss Venora, raven-tressed, intense and 25, set out from her native ridgeport, Conn., seven years ago to conquer the world of arias. The first job she got was with a New Jersey troupe dedicated instead to the merrier melodies of order, Rodgers and Berlin.

"In the last year and a half I've been loath to do a roadway show," she says. "Life in one can be hellish, singing eight performances a week."

The grand exception to her indictment, she hastily adds, is "Kean," in which she makes her Main Stem debut with notable success opposite Alfred Drake.

"For an opera singer, the music in 'Kean' is light and right," she explains. "To switch from the one form to the other can be difficult, but in this role I am able to sing in my own voice."

Miss Coulter — also a soprano but blonde and several inches taller than petite Lee — has given up her initial aspirations toward the song-and-dance stage.

"I originally came to New York to get into a roadway show," she notes. "But now I'm really not interested anymore."

Fate started twisting her plans as soon as she arrived in town six years ago. Seeking auditions for musicals, Miss Coulter landed instead the lead role in a television production of "La bohème" by the National roadcasting Company.

Born in altimore, Miss Coulter grew up in Burlingame, Calif., and got interested in singing because her brother won an amateur contest.

Eastern Star Chapter 279 Installs Officers for '62

The 1962 offices of Pettis Chapter No. 279, Order of the Eastern Star, were installed in ceremonies at the Masonic Temple Saturday evening, Dec. 9.

The chapter room decorations carried out the colors and emblems of the Worthy Grand Matron for 1962. Against a white background in the East was an artist's palette connected to large fuchsia-colored hearts with drapings of blue net. Garlands of white gardenias were in the center of the hearts. Similar hearts were placed at the back of each Star Point station. In the West were the Holy Bible and the Sun, the two great lights.

Preceding the installation ceremony, there was a musical prelude by Mrs. J. E. Downey. The meeting was opened with the entrance of Mrs. Handy Handley, Worthy Matron, and Lloyd Kirkpatrick, Worthy Patron, followed by the installing officers.

The Holy Bible was brought into the Chapter room by David Hall, son of the incoming Worthy Matron. His escorts were Ross Stephens and Charlie Pahlow. As they stood at the altar, Mrs. John Lyon, Mrs. W. Z. Heady, Mrs. Grace Arbogast, Mrs. Lottie White, Mrs. Jess Gwinn, Mrs. Howard Gwinn, and Mrs. Paul Baum, Past Matrons of the Chapter, assisted in forming a cross back of the altar, while Mr. Hall read the scripture guidance for the year, and Mrs. Charles Farley sang, "My God and I."

The American flag was presented by Mrs. Wayne Morton, wearing a white satin cape. She was escorted by Mrs. Clarence Harrell, Mrs. John Skolaut, Mrs. William Gard and Mrs. Elsie Burgenner, chapter members, who wore red and blue capes. The tribute to the flag was given by Leonard Hall, Past Patron, after which Larry Owen sang, "God Bless America."

The Eastern Star flag was presented by Mrs. J. R. DeWitt, wearing a white satin cape. She was escorted by Mrs. Grace Arbogast, Mrs. Lottie White, Mrs. Marion Meyers and Mrs. Harold Painter, chapter members, who wore capes in the Star Point colors. The tribute to the Eastern Star flag was given by Edwin Kettlesen, Associate Grand Patron, after which Mrs. Farley sang, "Star of the East."

Mrs. Rose Stephens, conductress, opened the Bible and the Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison. The Pledge of Allegiance was then given to the flag of the United States of America, and one verse of "Star Spangled Banner" was sung.

Mrs. Handley and Mr. Kirkpatrick welcomed the members and guests. Mrs. Handley then introduced distinguished guests of the evening: Mrs. Frank Coffman, Past Grand Matron; Edwin W. Kettlesen, Associate Grand Patron; Mrs. James Krockenberger, District Deputy Grand Matron of the 36th District, and Mrs. Gladys Simpson, Grand Representative of Scotland.

This was followed by the introduction of the installing officers: Mrs. Frank Coffman, Installing Grand Officer; Charles Hofheins, Installing Grand Patron; Mrs. George Chamberlin, Installing Grand Marshal; Mrs. Charles Hofheins, Installing Grand Chaplain; Mrs. J. E. Downey, Installing Grand Organist, and Mrs. James Krockenberger, Floral Marshal.

The installation ceremony then followed, with the following officers being installed: Mrs. Leonard Hall, Worthy Matron; Shelby Oehrke, Worthy Patron; Mrs. Ross Stephens, Associate Matron; Handy Handley, Associate Patron; Mrs. John Staubli, Secretary; Mrs. Don McQueen, Treasurer; Mrs. Charlie Pahlow, Conductress; Mrs. Ray Crosslin, Associate Conductress; Ms. Virgil Ragar, Chaplain; Mrs. Gary Gilliland, Marshal; Mrs. J. W. Watts, Organist; Miss Sue Rader, Adah; Mrs. J. D. Schlobohm, Ruth; Mrs. Ora R. Pettry, Esther; Mrs. W. G. Burris, Martha; Mrs. Oliver C. Blankenship, Electa; Mrs. Ernest Barker, Warder; Ross Stephens, Sentinel.

As Mrs. Hall stood at the altar following her installation, Mr. Owen sang, "You're the Only Star in Our Blue Heaven."

As Mr. Oehrke stood at the altar following his installation, he was presented a boutonniere by his daughters, Katherine and Barbara, and Mrs. Farley sang clever, appropriate words to the tune of "Casey Jones."

After the officers were installed, Mrs. Krockenberger, assisted by the newly installed Worthy Matron, presented the Star Points small rose bowls tied with their respective colors.

The Chapter's gift to the Worthy Matron, a blue vase of red roses, was presented to her by her charming small granddaughters, Mary Jeannette and Ann Nealon, with Mary Jeannette making the presentation speech. Her husband presented to her a gavel which had been made by L. V. Morris, a Past Patron of Sedalia Chapter.

In a ceremony written by Mrs. John Lyon, the Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron were honored by the 1962 officers.

The Worthy Matron and the Worthy Patron expressed their appreciation for the installation

Talks were also made by Mrs. Coffman, Mr. Kettlesen, Mrs. Krockenberger, and Mrs. Mae Stewart, Worthy Matron of Warrensburg Chapter No. 3, who spoke for the Worthy Matrons and Worthy Patons of the district.

Mrs. Handley was presented a Past Matron's Jewel by Mrs. Lloyd Kirkpatrick, and J. H. Gwinn presented a Past Patron's Jewel to Mr. Kirkpatrick.

The meeting was closed with the singing of "God Be With You," and the repeating of the Mizpah benediction in unison.

After the meeting was closed, a reception was held in the dining room. The centerpiece on the lace-covered table was of white gardenias with white tapers and fuchsia-colored streamers. The junior Past Matron, Mrs. Handley, presided at the punch bowl, with Mrs. Richard M. Nealon, daughter of the Worthy Matron, at the coffee service, Mrs. Floyd Knerl was chairman of the reception committee.

Mrs. Charles Hofheins was general installation chairman and Mrs. J. H. Gwinn chairman of decorations. Mrs. Shelby Oehrke and Mrs. W. Z. Heady served on the hospitality committee to register the guests. Ushers were Don McQueen, Charlie Pahlow, C. R. Walker, J. H. Gwinn and Floyd Knerl.

Firecrackers Rigged As Simple Fire Alarm

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—Joe R. Kramer has a do-it-yourself fire alarm system in his home. He uses inch-long firecrackers. "I keep them between me and the stove," Kramer explained after reading of several home fire deaths.

"I've got one stapled above the door in the bedroom. If that gas stove in the other room gets overheated, I'm not in any danger until the fire comes through the door. Then, bang! I'm wide awake and can get out."

CAUGHT IN ACT — John Edwards, 17-year-old high school student of Manassas, Long Island, grins at United Nations headquarters in New York as he gets the V.I.P. treatment for being the millionth visitor to the U.N. during the year. The honor proved a little embarrassing for John and a school pal—they played hooky from school to visit the international diplomatic center. A school official agreed the pupils had a "fantastic excuse" for their absence from classes.

Civil Defense Award Presented To BPW Clubs

The Dorothy Calvin Civil Defense Award was presented to the Missouri Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs Dec. 11, at the Missouri Civil Defense Women's Advisory Council meeting held in Jefferson City with Mrs. Marjorie Garansson, Sedalia, state National Security chairman, accepting the award in behalf of the federation. Mrs. Evelyn Carter, Cape Girardeau National Security chairman, and chairman of the steering committee, MOCDAW, made the presentation.

The award was made to the federation as the state organization most deserving for motivating its membership in promoting the Home Preparedness Program, for the period April 1961 to Oct. 1961. The award is a traveling award and is presented semi-annually. The Missouri BPWC also won this award for the period Oct. 1960 to April, 1961.

The award was named in memory of Mrs. Dorothy Calvin, who was at one time director of Women's Activities for Missouri and who served as secretary to Col. Russell Boyd, chief planner of the Missouri Survival Plan. Mrs. Calvin was killed on May 1, 1959. She had been in Cape Girardeau to assist in conducting a Civil Defense program and was returning home to Jefferson City when she was injured and later died. A photograph of Mrs. Calvin accompanies the award and was given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Goeller of Hartsburg, Mo.

Record Sales Predicted

Shoppers' Dollars Falling Like Snow In Holiday Rush

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Shoppers' dollars are falling like snowflakes into cash registers as the Christmas buying season swirls toward what may be an all-time record.

Merchants across the country generally report that crowds had started jamming the stores on the day after Thanksgiving day and have kept coming.

A trend toward buying fallout shelter equipment as household gifts was noted by some merchants.

"It's wonderful!" chortled Joe Falk, owner of a big Kansas City toy store. "People are looser with their money than last year. They are buying the good stuff and don't care what they have to spend."

In some areas, however, buying was about on a par with last year or a little lower. Apprehension over the international situation and anxiety over further call-up of reserves made some people cautious about heavy buying.

The United States Chamber of Commerce predicted Americans would spend $23 billion this Christmas, up 4 per cent from record 1960. The National Retail Merchants Association forecast a 2 per cent gain.

An Associated Press survey of merchants in major cities indicated in the attitude of their customers buying more and better merchandise, have lost much of the caution that marked their shopping last year and are splurging somewhat on luxuries.

Merchants feel that general business improvement is reflected in the attitude of their customers.

Prices are generally holding close to last year with increased competition from discount houses being a factor.

"Saturday, Dec. 9 was the biggest day we've ever had," said Cyril Magnin, president of Joseph Magnin Co. with stores in San Francisco and Reno and Las Vegas, Nev. "Christmas shopping started out slow but it sure picked up and I think we'll roll along for a top year now."

"Georgians are spending with enthusiasm," said Harold Brockey, president of Rich's department store in Atlanta.

Wallace Dreyfous, president of another Atlanta department store, Davison-Paxon Co., added: "The buyers don't seem to have the price consciousness that you expect from cautious shoppers. If they want something, they go ahead and buy it."

In New York City, department stores reported crowds arrived earlier and are spending more money than last year.

Arthur L. Manchec, president of Macy's, biggest store of all, predicted its sales would be 5 to 6 per cent ahead of last year.

"December is exceeding all of our expectations," said Melvin E. Dawley, president of New York City's Lord & Taylor.

In Los Angeles, Maggie Paxton, sales promotion manager for the May Co. department stores, commented: "We're ahead in transactions but behind in dollars. We're selling more toys but there's less profit margin. It takes 15 per cent more business to get the same dollar profit."

The buying season started out strong in Dallas and some major store owners said they expect total sales to be substantially over a year ago.

Miami, Fla., department store managers predicted a record buying season. "The public is in a mood to buy," said Murray Turetsky, general manager of Jackson's-Byrons Department Store.

Washington, D. C., department stores expect a modest 2 to 3 per cent increase over last year and are wondering why it isn't better.

One merchant has his own answer: Worry over the international situation.

"I feel that people are holding back on big installment purchases—youth people especially," he said. "I believe there is much apprehension over the possibility that more reserves, and possibly the National Guard might be called up."

A merchant in Denver noticed that parents seem to be buying fewer toys in favor of making purchases that can be associated with the nuclear bomb and fallout shelter scare. He said people are buying such items as transistor radios, flashlights and batteries, condensed foods and surplus water storage tanks.

Toys are way out this year. They are bigger and more intricate and in some cases more costly than ever.

"Everything and anything that has to do with the whole space age bit is going over," reported Deborah Truax of the Broadway Department Stores in Los Angeles. "Anything that is like a robot is the big deal. If it looks like a monster or shoots missiles out of its head, that's what the children want. The toys are very warlike."

A toy price war has broken out in New York and some other cities, including Dallas. In some New York stores, clerks have taken toys out of customers' hands to change the prices.

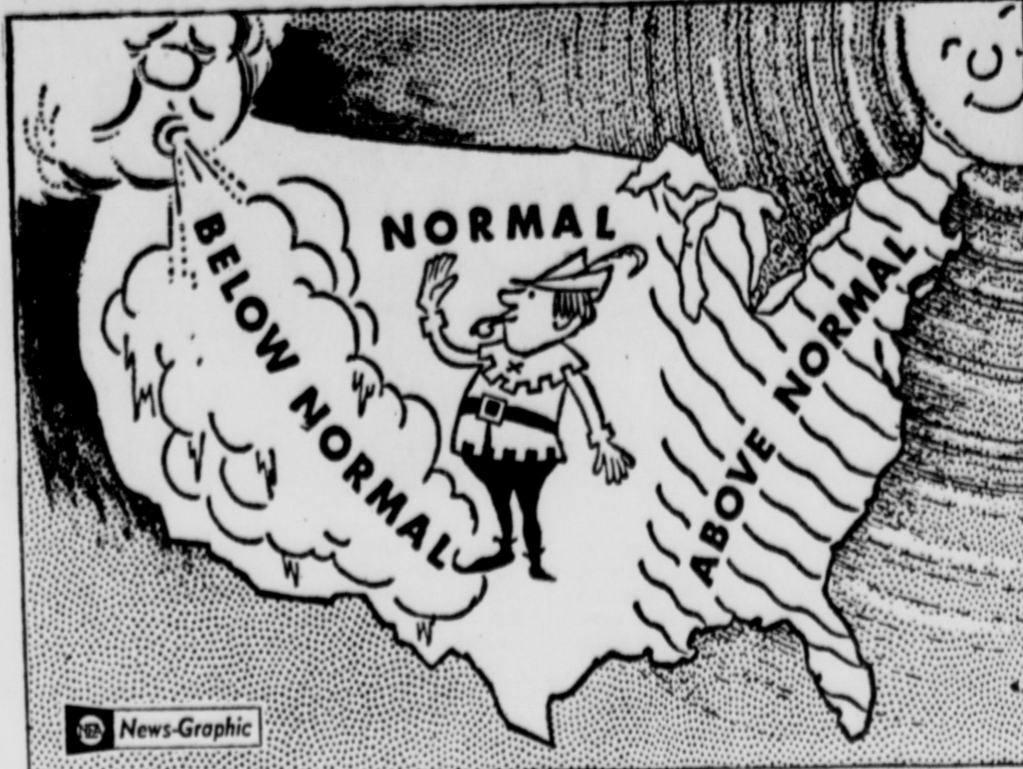

Fads don't seem to be very strong this season but stores are going all out to accommodate people who have lots of money and are looking for gifts for other people who "have everything."

In Dallas' Nieman-Marcus department store, you can buy an ermine bathrobe for $6.95.

Seattle's I. Magnin Co. offers a necklace and earring set at $24,000.

Tiffany's of New York is offering gold mesh handbags for $2,000 up. And still available is the famed Tiffany diamond, attached to a necklace, at $45,000.

Merchants big worry is the weather. After storms in the Mid-

THIS WINTER—Strictly unofficially, the U.S. Weather Bureau is experimenting with 90-day forecasts. Usually, they're only made for the next 30 days. Sketch above shows how this winter may—repeat, may—shape up, if the elves who control the weather don't play any tricks. It will be a hard winter west of the Continental Divide down through West Texas. Above normal temperatures will prevail over most of the eastern half of the country. In between there will be nothing unusual. Precipitation will also be much heavier in the west, particularly along the coast. It will be heavy in the southern and central plains up through the lake region, below normal south of Pennsylvania and east of the Appalachians, also in northwest away from coast. Rest of country will be normal.

Sophia Best Advertising For Spaghetti

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Sophia Loren, that masterpiece of Neapolitan architecture, is the world's greatest advertisement for spaghetti.

Look at what pasta—or lack of same—has done.

At age 17, nourished by noodles, Sophia sighed in a low-cut blouse—and a star was born.

At age 23, Sophia came to Hollywood and was told to forget spaghetti and live on broiled lettuce. It was a disastrous two years.

She returned to Italy, ate spaghetti and drank wine and now is a prime candidate for an Oscar.

If it had not been for the spaghetti, Anna Magnani, not Loren, west and the Rockies they have their fingers crossed.

would have played the mother in "Two Women."

When Sophia returned, she was so undernourished that Sophia was cast as Anna's daughter.

Then hitches developed. Anna had some other commitments. During the wait, Sophia ate fettuccine and regained that figure with more curves than the Amalfi Way.

Director Vittorio de Sica, with a fine Italian eye, decided that Sophia would play the mother and that the daughter part would be rewritten to that of a 13-year-old child.

Result: best actress award Cannes Film Festival; the Italian Oscar and, if critics can be believed, a sure Academy Award nomination.

With one picture Sophia has bridged the almost impossible to cross chasm between sexpot and serious actress.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My mother-in-law never interferes nor makes demands, but she knows how to get what she wants in clever little ways.

She's been having dinner with us every Sunday for years. She arrives in a taxi (and can well afford it) but when it comes time to go home she says "I think I'll call a cab" — instead of going ahead and doing it. Naturally, my husband says, "Oh no, Mother, we'll drive you."

When we get to the car she always asks where she should sit — instead of getting into the back seat where she belongs. Of course my husband says, "Sit in front with me, Mother." This means I have to sit in back with the kids. She's had some trouble with her hip but with a little effort she could get in the back seat and let husband and wife be together. You always say no one should come between a man and his wife. Right?—T. J.

Dear T. J.: If you think you're going to get me to support your shameful lack of consideration for your mother-in-law, by twisting my words, you rattled the wrong cage.

She sounds like a lovely person. The fact that she arrives in a taxi and asks where to sit when she is being driven home, proves it. The least you can do is be gracious about driving her home once a week and letting her sit beside her son.

month desperately. Some weeks my husband doesn't give me a dime.

So please say a word in behalf of working mothers, Ann. Some of us have no choice.—MARTHA

Dear Martha: You said it—and well, too. My thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I've heard that certain people can be allergic to other people. Is this my trouble?

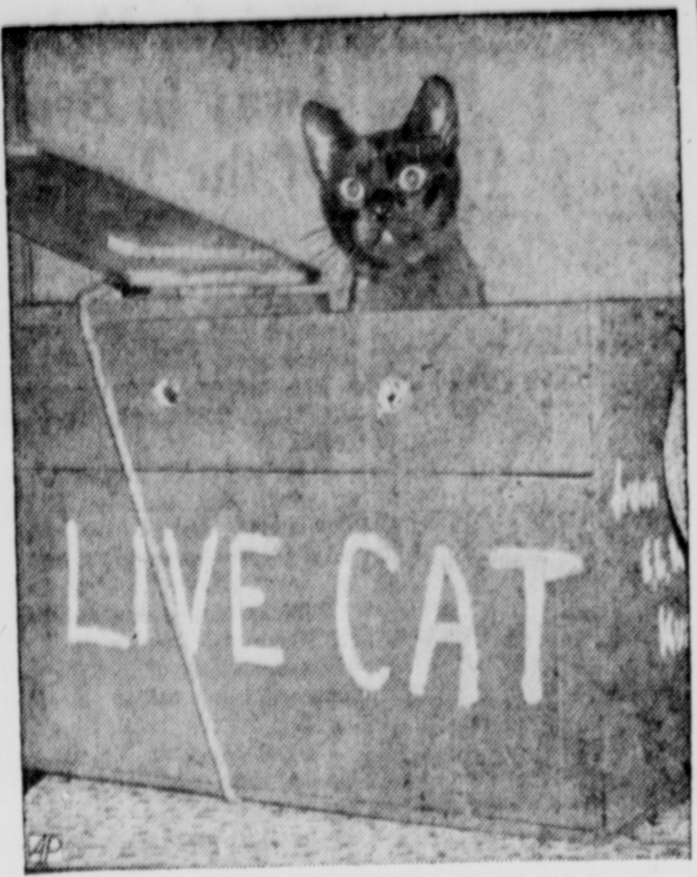

My boy friend has a very scratchy beard. My skin is awfully sensitive. When he kisses me and rubs his face against mine, my cheeks get red and itchy.

We've been going together for six months and it seems to be getting worse. Maybe it's because he doesn't shave as often as he used to. Would you say I am allergic to him or what?—MELBA

Dear Melba: This does not sound like a true allergy in the strict medical sense (where personality conflicts create chemical changes). Your skin irritation is probably the result of his scratchy beard.

Ask your boy friend to return to his court-day shaving habits. This should help.

Six Brave Men Laid Charge Beneath British Battleship

By DAVID ZINMAN
Associated Press Writer

"Take the frogmen down to the hold," the British shipper roared. Sailors hustled one Italian prisoner down into the bowels of the battleship Valiant moored in Alexandria, Egypt. Locked in, Lt. Luigi Duand de la Penne, started counting the minutes left in his life.

He well knew what the British skipper had tried desperately to find out. De la Penne had ridden a "human torpedo" into the British harbor and planted a time bomb below the 32,000-ton warship.

At this very moment, two more "human torpedoes" glided through the murky waters of the naval base toward the battleship Queen Elizabeth—the only other Allied battlewagon in the Mediterranean—and a tanker.

It was Dec. 18, 1941—20 years ago Monday—that a half dozen brave men carried out what was perhaps the Italians' most daring naval maneuver of World War II.

Success for frogmen De la Penne, Emile Bianchi, Spartaco Scheraga, Antonio Marcegaglia, Mario Marino and Vincenzo Martellotto would singlehandedly tip the power scales in the Mediterranean.

Minutes flew by. Down in the hold, De la Penne knew escape was impossible. Would he be blown to bits? Would death come by drowning? In the last seconds, there was nothing to do but wait.

The Alexandria operation had started 15 days earlier. On Dec. 3, 1941, crewmen of the submarine Scire at La Spezia naval base in northern Italy hauled three top-secret human torpedo crafts aboard.

The name was deceiving. The human torpedo was not suicidal. It was not, in the true sense, a torpedo.

It was a clumsy 21-foot craft capable of cruising partly submerged with the pilot's head and shoulders out of the water or fully submerged. If the two-man crew succeeded in slipping by harbor craft, depth charges and underwater nets, they would detach a 500-pound charge (which formed the torpedo's nose), fix it to the ship, and set a fuse. Then they would remount the torpedo's remaining section and glide off.

Mussolini himself was in on the planning of the Alexandria raid. Rome intelligence had learned the British naval base was crammed full of ships.

On the night of Dec. 8, the Scire surfaced 1.3 miles north of the Ras-el-Tin lighthouse on the pier west of Alexandria. Led by De la Penne, the frogmen—garbed like strange gnomes in black, airtight rubber suits and respirators—mounted their sea horses and made the run to Ras-el-Tin lighthouse without incident.

As they neared the harbor entrance, protected by a submarine net, fate smiled. The lights of the harbor gale suddenly flashed on and the net boom swung back to permit three approaching destroyers to enter the harbor.

The frogmen plunged into the ships' wake. The wash tossed them against the boom and upset their crafts. The surge scattered the three torpedo teams. Somehow they all got through, but they lost contact.

Inside the base, De la Penne moved easily through the harbor, past two British cruisers and under a carrier's stern.

An hour later, he stopped. There was the Valiant. The dreadnought's eight 15-inch guns pointed in all directions.

Through underwater touch signals, De la Penne told his assistant Bianchi their target was ahead. Now De la Penne's torpedo moved so stealthily there was no wash.

Some 150 feet away, he ran into a torpedo net surrounding the ship. He submerged and tried to raise it. It was too heavy. De la Penne and Bianchi carefully shoved their torpedo over the top of the net. It splashed. Apparently no one heard it.

Then, the first series of bad breaks occurred. De la Penne's suit punctured, chilling his body.

He started forward again. Five hours had passed since he left the submarine. He was less than 100 feet from the Valiant.

Suddenly, the torpedo balked and sank to the bottom. A wire had fouled the propeller. De la Penne surfaced. He was about 45 feet from the No. 1 stack.

He and Bianchi would have to detach the warhead and drag into position. When he got back down to the torpedo, Bianchi was gone. He surfaced again. No sign of Bianchi. Had he passed out? Or been discovered? On board the battleship, all was quiet.

There was only one thing he could do. If De la Penne was to carry out the operation, he would have to drag the quarter-ton, slightly buoyant warhead to the battleship by himself. It would take a superhuman effort. But the ship was so close, and he had come so far.

He made a few inches with each pull. The slimy mud covered him in a black cloud. He plunged ahead, guided by the noise of the ship's pumps. The leak in his suit bogged him down.

He dragged the torpedo the final few yards and set the fuse. He did not clip the charge to the bilge keel. It was beyond his strength. He left the warhead on the shallow harbor bottom below the Valiant.

At the surface, he ripped off his oxygen mask and inhaled the pure air. A sailor spotted him.

The harbor came alive with searchlights. A machine gun opened up. De la Penne whirled swam under the Valiant's bow and climbed aboard a mooring buoy. There was Bianchi.

He had been overcome under water. Not wanting to interrupt the operation, Bianchi had hidden behind the buoy.

A searchlight picked them up. A launch came up and they were pulled aboard.

On board the Valiant, Capt. Charles Morgan told an interpreter to explain that if the frogmen did not tell where the charge was, they would be locked in the deepest compartments in the hold. They would be involved in anything that happened to the ship.

On deck, there was a frantic attempt to find and dislodge the charge. Sailors passed a line under the ship's keel. They swept her from stem to stern. The deadly warhead, lying undetected on the sea floor, stayed in position.

De la Penne glanced at his waterproof watch. Ten minutes before the charge was to explode, he hammered on the door. In a few minutes, he was before Capt. Morgan.

"The Valiant will be blown up inside ten minutes," the Italian officer said, hoping the captain would order the ship abandoned.

Morgan asked him again where the warhead was. No answer. Very well, back De la Penne went to the bottom of the doomed battleship.

Why didn't Morgan move the ship? Apparently he figured De

Carmakers Adopt Operation For Share of World Market

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT (AP) — American automobile manufacturers are convinced the big markets of the future lie outside the United States and they are steadily adapting their operations to gain a bigger share in the world growth.

Marketing experts predict that by 1965 car buyers in other countries will be purchasing an average of six million new cars annually. Sales in the United States this year probably will come to about six million.

Already the rest of the world comes extremely close to matching the United States in auto production and in the recession year of 1958 U.S. output for the first time dipped below 50 per cent of the world total.

Exports from American assembly plants, which had been dropping steadily since 1955, turned upward slightly last year, mainly because of the new compact cars. But through the first 10 months of this year the total of 105,499 was down six per cent and none of the Detroit companies believes the trend can be reversed permanently.

This year Ford Motor Co. is spending $220 million on expansion abroad. General Motors is in the midst of a two-year $500-million foreign program. These two giants which rank first and second among the world's auto companies, are not alone.

Most recent of various moves was one announced 10 days ago by American Motors — an agreement with Renault of France to build Ramblers in Belgium. For more than a year AMC had been angling for an entry into the booming European Common Market where cars can enjoy the greatly reduced customs rates between countries.

It seemed like an eternity before the blast. At first, there was a gentle shudder. Then a cataclysm of water shot into the air. The huge Valiant heaved, listed to port and settled slowly in the mud.

In the hold, De la Penne thought his life was over. Lights went out. The deck came up to crush him. Fittings flew everywhere, and everywhere there was the stifling odor of smoke.

Luckily, the door was blown open. Except for a painfully wrenched knee, De la Penne was unhurt.

On deck, he found Bianchi. He, too, had been blown free.

Weight Melts Away to Beat Of the Twist

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD — President Kennedy, in a time of national danger, called upon the nation to make itself physically fit. The response was typically American—everybody's doing the Twist.

It isn't what the President had in mind. But from New York's Peppermint Lounge to Hollywood's Crazy Horse Saloon, dancers are twisting off tons of flab. If the current dancing madness continues—and it looks as if it will—America could become the best-conditioned nation in the world.

It's our secret weapon, for no one can remain soft while Twisting.

Take the case history of one Chubby Checker, generally credited as being the big daddy of the Twist.

Checker is a 20-year-old rock 'n' roll singer from South Philadelphia whose right name is Ernest Evans. When he cut his first record, he changed his name in emulation of his idol — Fats Domino.

Get it? Chubby-Fats. Checker-Domino. But that was before the Twist. His Twisting onstage has shed some 35 pounds. He may have to change his name again.

About a year ago Checker made a record of "The Twist," written by another rock 'n' roller, Hank Ballard. Ballard also hasn't got an ounce of fat on him.

Case histories of Twisters read like those at a health farm.

Edie Adams, who started the craze in Hollywood, lost five pounds in two days of rehearsal. There are some who say she threw her back out of joint too when she twisted at a Las Vegas nightclub.

Four movies currently are being made in Hollywood to cash in on the craze with titles like "Doin' the Twist" and "Twist Around the Clock."

Producer Jerry Wald vows he will make "Son of the Twist" and "The Twist Strikes Back."

The Twist, as a dance, is not new. With the teen-agers, it's about six dances behind. Its appeal is threefold—it keeps the waistline down, anyone can do it and man, it's fun.

The basic step is done thusly: Stand about eight inches from your partner. Twist your hips in a circular motion—first to the right, then to the left. Keep hips twisting as you superimpose various steps with your feet on it.

Keep your weight on your left foot and imagine you are putting out a lighted cigarette with your right foot. Now shift your right foot and put out another imaginary cigarette with your left foot. Wiggle as you would in drying yourself with a towel.

150 Persons In Attendance At Annual Scouting Dinner

A record crowd of over 150 persons attended the Annual Recognition Dinner of the local Twin Forks District, Lake of the Ozarks Council, B.S.A. at the Marshall Methodist Church Thursday night. The highlight of this Annual Scouting Social event was the presentation of the Silver Beaver Award to William O. (Bill) Hiatt, Jr., Sedalia. This award is the highest made to a volunteer in Scouting by the local Council and was the 43th award to be made in the Lake of the Ozarks Council.

Harry Naugel, Sedalia, a vice-president of the council, read the citation of Hiatt, who, while active in Scouting worked as district commissioner and district chairman since 1956, has also been active with the youth of his church and is treasurer at the present time.

Hiatt is the local gas manager for the Missouri Public Service Co. and also served the Sedalia-Pettis County United Fund this year as training chairman. Charles Bailey, Eldon, council president, made the presentation.

Ike Skelton, Jr., Lexington, an active Scouter of the Kansas City area council was the principal speaker and he brought a challenge to the local district scouters to help youth have more opportunities to enjoy and work in the Scouting program. He used the new slogan of the national scouting emphasis for 1962 — "On my honor, I will do my best to: Build, Serve, and Achieve." — as his subject.

Another feature of the meeting was the presentation of Certificates of Appreciation to scoutmasters, cubmasters, explorer advisors, and their wives. Each wife also received a baby orchid, flown in especially for this meeting from Hawaii. D. S. Westmoreland, Jr., Marshall, district commissioner, made these presentations.

Special training awards were presented to four den mothers, and two scoutmasters by Rev. Walter Niles of the Wesley Methodist Church who serves as the council leadership training chairman. These awards are for the completion of a two or three year program in training to better serve the boys of their unit.

Broker Charged With Using The Mails for Fraud

ST. LOUIS — William B. Landwehr, 42, a 6-8, 285-pound, former insurance broker in suburban Clayton, was charged with using the mails to defraud Thursday in connection with a nationwide phantom insurance company scheme.

Landwehr allegedly obtained hundreds of thousands of dollars in an elaborate fraud involving paper insurance and adjustment firms.

His indictment on nine counts of mail fraud by a federal grand jury ended years of investigative work by federal, state and local authorities.

Landwehr, who has been held in city jail since July pending an appeal on a Dyer Act conviction, will be arraigned either today or Monday.

The indictment carries a maximum penalty of a $9,000 fine, 45 years imprisonment or both.

Landwehr was convicted last July 20 on a charge of driving a stolen car across a state line, was fined $2,500 and sentenced to 30 months in prison by federal Judge George H. Moore.

Our Economic Illiteracy

If there is one thing our politicians like to drum into us, it is the superiority of our free enterprise economy over any competing system.

One would think from this that most Americans know pretty well what their own system is, how it works, what its specific advantages are.

Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges says flatly most of us know little or nothing about the U. S. economy.

Opinion Research Corp., noting in a study that business ownership in this country is fanning out steadily to people of modest incomes, finds that only about a third of U.S. stockholders can define capitalism with any accuracy.

Hodges believes that without better economic understanding there can be no broad-based support for the kind of policies needed to promote a healthy free enterprise system.

The worst of it, evidently, is that up until recently we have not acted to correct this deficiency.

It is estimated that of the 10 million youngsters who entered high school last year, only 10 to 15 per cent will ever take any kind of an economics course either in secondary school or college.

One educator says more than half those who provide some high school economics instruction in so-called social studies courses have themselves not had even one formal course in economics.

In this connection, it might be observed that two leaders in the educational world, Dr. A. Whitney Griswold and Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, currently deplore the condition of U.S. higher education and find important roots of the trouble in deficient high school teaching.

Lately some efforts have been initiated to attack this country's widespread "economic illiteracy."

A task force cosponsored by the American Economic Assn. and the Committee for Economic Development is dredging up the uncomfortable facts to lay the basis for improvement.

The Council for Advancement of Secondary Education (CASE) is trying to find out what economic studies should properly be taught in high school. As part of his project it is publishing teacher-learning materials which first findings suggest will be suitable for studies at that level.

Another group of economists and educators has put out a "good reading" list in economics for high school use.

Nearly everybody grasps the idea that economics is the "stuff of life." Too many, though, seem content to live it without understanding it. Our touted free economy could hardly fail to work better if more of us knew its real nature.

Venezuela Moves Against Poverty

By DREW PEARSON

CARACAS, VENEZUELA—The most important project President Kennedy is visiting in Venezuela is a little agricultural settlement near Lake Valencia called El Frio, which in English means "The Cold One." It will be renamed "Alianza" in honor of Kennedy's Alliance for Progress.

However, the interesting paradox is that this Venezuelan contribution to the Alliance for Progress was actually built without a cent of American money and by a man who was once banned from U.S. territory when he was exiled by Dictator Perez Jimenez. Kennedy, of course, had nothing to do with the shabby treatment given President Betancourt, nor with the medal that President Eisenhower bestowed on Dictator Perez Jimenez.

But there's an important lesson to be learned from the operation of President Betancourt in cracking down on Castro, in pushing ahead with the Alliance for Progress even ahead of Kennedy, and with his refusal to expropriate the property of American oil and steel companies, though urged to do so by the pro-Castroites, some of whom once formed part of his administration.

If this U.S. property should be taken over, the U.S. Steel Company's huge mill at Fairless, Pa., and Bethlehem's huge mill at Sparrow's Point, Md., would be seriously handicapped; while the oil that fires the factories and furnaces of our eastern seaboard would be cut off.

The lesson is that the United States has to back political parties of the people, not of the army or the wealthy oligarchies; and that the president who comes from the left, as Betancourt has done, is better able to cope with the left than a politician from the right. Betancourt, an ex-Communist, knows the tactics of Castro. And now that he has his army with him, he is pushing ahead with major social reforms which could make a model showcase of Venezuela.

The project President Kennedy is visiting is a relatively small one. But with the exception of Mexico, which has pioneered in agrarian reform, it is one of the most forward in Latin America. Ninety-six housing units have been finished at El Frio with 79 more under construction under a self-help community development plan whereby the local people, plus the state, cooperate to build streets, water supply, sewers, and a community center.

Plans for this project were developed by Eric Carlson, a U.S. expert who has worked in Latin America, and Dr. Arnaldo Gabaldon, the minister of health, a Johns Hopkins graduate who keeps close ties with the United States.

Three days before Kennedy arrived in Caracas, the Venezuelan cabinet formally voted to expand this community development program to all of Venezuela and give it further support.

Betancourt has already put 30,000 small farm families on the land, bought and paid for in cash or bonds—not seized from foreign land-owners as did Castro.

"I have made two and a half million acres of land available for distribution to small farmers in two years," President Betancourt told me. "That's more than Castro has done. However, we pay for it. We are not seizing the land of foreigners. We are buying it."

President Betancourt still has two problems, and here is where President Kennedy can help him:

No. 1 is the reestablishment of more confidence so as to attract more capital to Venezuela.

No. 2 is to get rid of the awful slums which cover the hills around Caracas.

On Point No. 1, the Standard Oil Company (Creole) and David Rockefeller of the Chase Manhattan Bank have already shown their confidence in the Betancourt administration by easing credit terms, advancing royalties, and helping in various other ways.

Squalor vs. Swank

This was not the case when I was in Venezuela last winter. However, an important, constructive change has been started by the biggest of all American oil companies since then, and others are beginning to follow suit.

On point No. 2, Caracas has the most sordid slums in all South America. From the officers club, built by Dictator Perez Jimenez, and one of the swankiest in the world, you look up the hill at a conglomeration of little huts of mud and Standard Oil cans, without sanitation or sewers, which, according to former health minister Enrique Tejera, give off 70 tons of human excrement daily, which in the rainy season washes down the hillsides into the fashionable, modern city of Caracas.

The people from the squalor of the hill-sides may come down near the officers club to watch the guard troop the colors at sundown. But neither the spotlessness of the troops' uniforms nor the precision of their parading lessens the problem of cramped-in sanitary housing.

It's a challenge for a Levitt of Levittown. And if he or any other housing expert, working with the Betancourt government, transformed these hillsides, the example would spread like wildfire throughout Latin America and the Alliance for Progress would have accomplished a miracle.

Price of Rembrandt

The most costly painting in the world now hangs in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. The price totaling $2,300,000 was raised by private contributors who wish to remain anonymous, and by the use of some of the regular funds allocated to the purchase of paintings.

The subject of this cherished Rembrandt is "Aristotle Contemplating the Bust of Homer," painted in 1653.

There is doubt in the minds of some whether this particular Rembrandt is worth the price. Also, should a public institution, supported in part by public contributions and endowments pay that much for one painting?

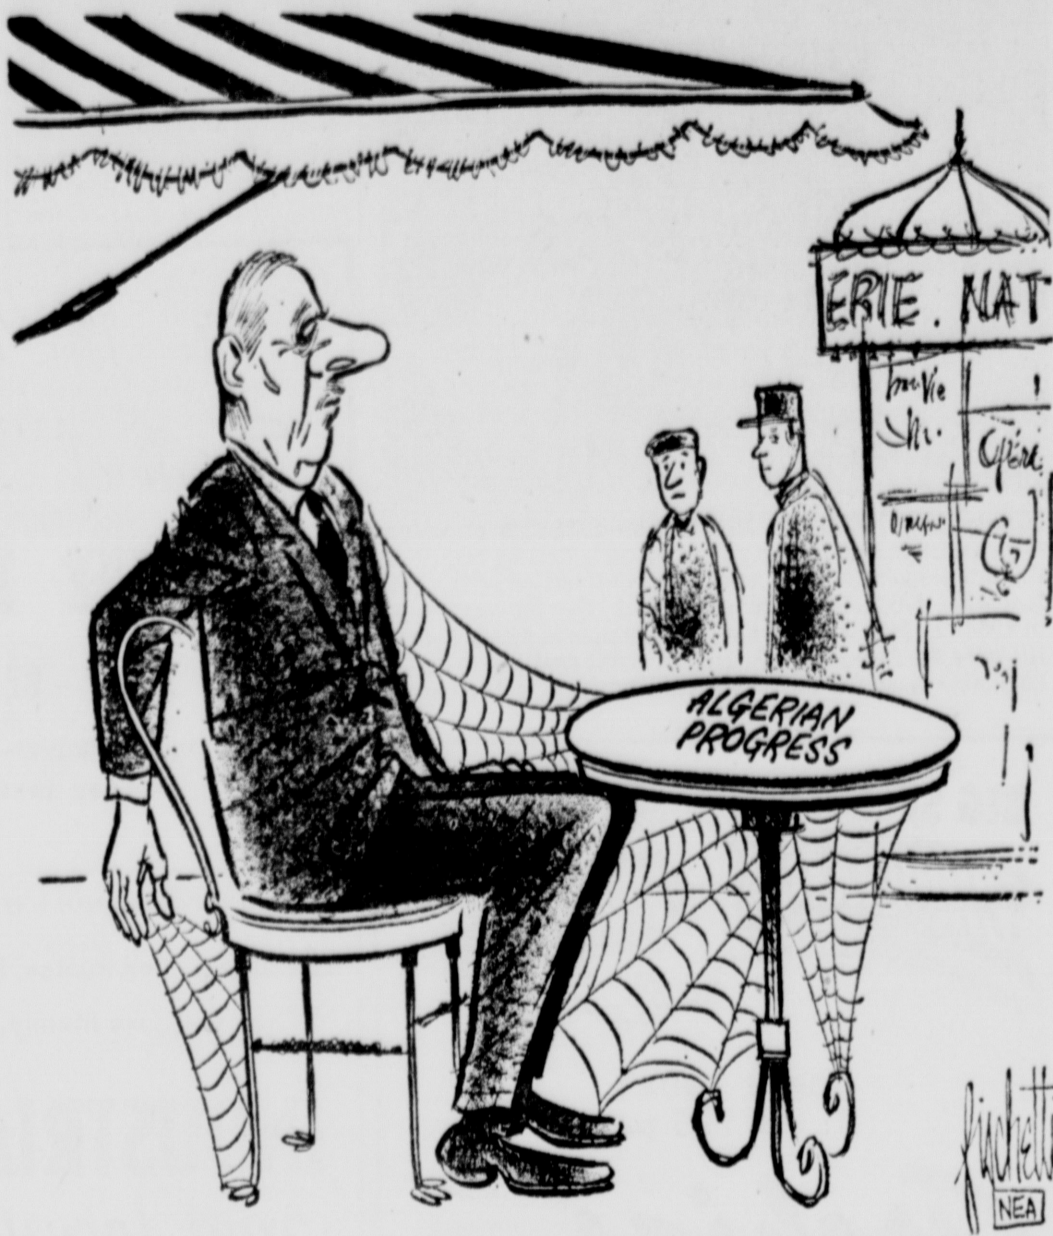

Evidently the competitive bids ran high. Private collectors wanted it, and other museums wanted it. The picture was part of the art collection of Alfred W. Erickson, an advertising man and his wife who paid $840,000 for it.

Whether right or wrong, the Metropolitan was the winner and those who wish to view "Aristotle Contemplating the Bust of Homer" may do so by visiting that house of treasures on New York's Fifth Avenue.

Red Army Far From Cuba

Castro Likely Victim Of Economic Strangulation

By Robert E. Hennessee

WASHINGTON — If there be perplexity in Washington over what to do with Cuba, and there certainly is, there also is a comparable perplexity in Moscow.

Castro's self-proclaimed communist state, thousands of miles from the Soviet's huge land armies, is something new to Soviet expansionism, and quite without parallel, except maybe for the Spanish Civil War.

There is a theory about that war — a theory accepted by the late George Orwell, who fought for the Loyalists and almost got killed — that the Soviet Union did not really wish to win it.

Orwell himself, as he wrote in "Homage to Catalonia," saw the communists time and again sabotage the Loyalist cause, although communists themselves were fighting and dying in the war against France.

The theory is that even then the Bolsheviks in Moscow knew there would be no way to sustain a communist government in Spain if the war were won and the Reds took over. Because there was no way to back up such a government with the Red Army.

Sooner or later in Cuba, Russia is going to need its Red Army to sustain Castro, but it is not going to be available, as it was in Hungary, Poland and East Germany in the ferment which followed Stalin's death.

As a result, Castro's regime probably will fall, and this will cause no great shock in Moscow where such things are understood and accepted. State Department pragmatists point to this presumed attitude as the chief reason Moscow is not and will not lend any sizable economic aid to Castro. He's a poor risk.

By a vote of 14 to 2 the OAS (Organization of American States) has called a conference of foreign ministers to map out a plan for combatting Castro.

Such action is likely to take the form of a slowly twisting economic tourniquet applied to Castro's neck. His government is flat broke in that it has no hard currency. As a result, the only foreign trading it can do is on a barter arrangement for its sugar and tobacco, much of which still goes to other Latin American countries.

If this is cut off, Khrushchev will either have to swim or cut bait to save his friend.

We, the Women

So Please Act Your Age You're No Teen-ager, Ma,

RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In order to stay close to their children through the difficult teen years, many parents today try to act like teen-agers themselves, says a professor of psychiatry at Tulane University.

This, he states, is a big mistake. It's important for parents to try to understand their teen-agers, but wrong for parents to try to be a part of the teen-age world.

He's right, of course. For her "best friend" a teen-age girl doesn't want her mother. She wants another teen-ager. But a girl can't tell her mother that.

Nor does a teen-age boy really want his father to be a pal to him. What he wants and what he needs are friends of his own age — and a father who is a father.

That doesn't mean that teen-agers can't be close to their parents. They can. But when they are really close is when the relationship isn't a faked, artificial one, but a real one.

The only real relationship between parents and children is the parent-child relationship.

Mothers are only kidding themselves when they try to be sisters to their daughters. And fathers are kidding only themselves when they try to be pals to their sons.

Because those are faked relationships they have no stability. When parents act like parents—then the kids have someone to look up to, someone to depend on, someone to set standards.

If the parents will just accept their role they will have a lot more influence with their children than if they try to pretend there isn't any age difference.

And how can parents expect teen-agers to look forward to being adults if the parents seem to think so little of maturity that they try to act like teen-agers, themselves?

OLEANDER'S CHRISTMAS EVE

The beard on his chin was as white as the snow, as Santa heard loud noises on the roof!

American Church on Foreign Soil

By CYRENE DEAR

Lonely Americans in Paris will find friendship and a cheerful place at Christmas in the American Church in Paris, situated on Quai d'Orsay and overlooking the Seine River.

In 1816 a group of American Christians created in Paris a congregation that was to become the first American Church on foreign soil, and the oldest non-government organization in Europe. In 1857 the congregation built its own church at 21, rue de Berri. The life of the church thrived and by 1929, its work became so important that members and friends gave of their personal incomes to build the present million dollar buildings between the Esplanade des Invalides and the Eiffel Tower.

From its inception this church united all forms of Evangelical Protestantism, although the prime movers of its life were non-conformists. It was probably the first inclusively Ecumenical Church in Protestantism. It has always opened its program without restriction to all faiths.

Three American presidents attended this church — Ulysses S. Grant, Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson.

Services for Americans were held every Sunday during both World Wars. During the second World War, the Germans occupied the Parish House but they allowed services in the church on Sundays. Services were held in English and a prayer for the President of the United States was offered. With the entrance of the liberation troops in Paris, the first service under the chaplains of the United States Army was held there on Sunday, September 3, 1944. From then until 1949 an official Army chaplain was assigned to this sanctuary.

The present pastor, Rev. Clayton E. Williams, has served the church first as an assistant minister, from the time when he was in the Air Force in 1926 to the time when he became the pastor in 1945 and he is still there. He is married to a French woman who is a great help in the French-American activities of the church.

One of its most successful activities, is the Students Atelier Reunion which invites American and other young students to meet for musicals, discussion groups and worship. This was started on the Left Bank but is now an important program on the Quai d'Orsay. Some of the world's greatest singers, political and educational leaders have appeared before this group.

When Douglas Dillon, now Secretary of the Treasury, was Ambassador to France he said of this church: "Its contribution, not only in the spiritual but also in the intellectual, recreational and humanitarian fields, to American families resident in Paris, to American students, to members of our Armed Forces stationed in France, and to the vast number of Americans visiting in Paris, can hardly be exaggerated."

For a hundred years this church has stood a living testimony to the fact that people of varying denominational backgrounds and outlooks can worship and work together in unity and amity if the spirit of the living Christ is in their hearts. Out of this church has flowed a steady stream of devoted Christians who have gone back to their homeland to serve the church with increased devotion because of the fellowship they found there.

Christmas Eve Commotion

Pompon was a poodle, as black as the night, And Puff was a kitten, all fluffy and white, And both were asleep on the living room rug. In front of the fireplace, all cozy and snug, And Dotie and David had both said their prayers. Their Mother and Daddy had gone to bed, too. Outside it was cold, the wind whistled and blew, The snowflakes were falling by the millions that night. And all of the town was glistening and white, The tree in the corner had branches so wide.

As if half of the room it was trying to hide, It sparkled with tinsel and ornaments shiny, With balls of all sizes from great big to tiny, The everything faded, the room became dark. For there in the fireplace was not even a spark, And all was so quiet, not a sound could be heard. Except now and then, when the pussy cat purred, Then all of a sudden Pompon gave a wail.

'Cause somebody stepped on his little short tail, And that scared Puff till her fur stood straight up. What on earth was the matter with that squealin' pup? And the little old man with his sack full of toys Was just as bewildered at all of the noise; The kitten's white tail was as big as a plume, Who was the intruder who stood there in the room? She arched up her back and set her small jaws And made a beeline for poor Santa Claus, Who dropped his big bag and disappeared up the flue.

The little ol' cat was on his trail, too, And while Santa went up with no trouble at all The little white kitten was due for a fall. But first she got caught in that chimney so black, She couldn't go up and she couldn't come back. She worked and she tugged — it was simply no use. So at last she gave up and somehow she came loose, She fell with a crash on the ashes and coals.

And out on the living room rug then she rolls, For a second time on that Christmas Eve night Pompon, the pup, was stiffened with fright. The family awakened and all ran downstairs And can you imagine the surprise that was theirs, Pompon got so scared that his hair had turned white.

Puff was covered with soot and was black as the night, Now just what had happened they couldn't quite guess, And after the flurry that room was a mess, But Dotie and David were certain they knew. For a big bag of toys had been left for those two, How did Santa Claus manage on that Christmas Eve Without his big bag that he had to leave?

And they wondered and wondered, but they never knew Just why Puff chased Santa on back up the flue. And the next year they worried for fear Santa'd recall What happened that night — and not come at all. But when Christmas Eve came he was there on the dot And left many things for each little tot. But he brought a flashlight — 'cause he'd had enough Of stepping on Pompon and riling up Puff.

Judiciary Watchdog Boosts European System of Courts

STRASBOURG, France (AP)—Western Europe has its own international judicial watchdog—the European Court of Human Rights.

Roughly comparable to the U.S. Supreme Court, the European tribunal was set up to make sure governments observe a citizen's basic human rights.

Still in its infancy, the European court has thus far actually tried and ruled on only one case. But its existence has influenced governments to be more attentive to constitutional rights. Moreover, the whole complex court machinery is designed to eliminate complaints, and one is heard only as a last resort.

The one case ruled upon was brought by an Irish National, Gerard Richard Lawless, against his own government. He accused Dublin authorities of violating the European Convention of Human Rights by detaining him without trial. The court eventually ruled last July against Lawless and in favor of Dublin. But the citizen's complaint was aired in court, and the Irish government had to appear at the defendant's table.

The government successfully argued that Lawless' detention was legal because the country was under a state of emergency due to activities of the outlawed Irish Republican Army. Lawless was allegedly a member of the underground army.

Lawyers in Europe rated the Lawless case of great importance in the development of international law. The complaint of an individual against his own government had, for the first time, been heard by an international tribunal. The government had willingly acknowledged the tribunal's competence and had appeared to answer for its own actions.

This unique court is based on a treaty—the Convention of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms—written in a burst of post-war enthusiasm in the summer of 1949, during the first session of the Council of Europe's consultative assembly. Its hope was to guard against any perversion of justice such as the Nazis made in Germany. The convention was finally signed in Rome, Nov. 4, 1950, but the court itself was not established until several years later when the necessary number of ratifications had occurred.

The rights covered by the convention may be compared with the American Bill of Rights. They include free speech, freedom of religion, voting rights, habeas corpus, and a full and fair public trial by jury.

Any signatory state can cite another for alleged violations of this code and hale the offending regime into court. Under certain circumstances any aggrieved citizen could cite his own government, and make it explain or mend its conduct.

The court, which sits in Strasbourg, consists of one judge from each of the council of Europe's 15 member-states. The judges are nominated by the committee of foreign ministers and elected for fixed terms by the consultative assembly. While in office, each judge received a salary from the Council of Europe.

When one government accuses another, the case may be sent to the foreign ministers who are expected to try to bring the two sides together. But if the plaintiff government persists it may take the case into court.

An individual, however, can approach the court only through what is called the Human Rights Commission, a panel of attorneys and legal experts named by the Council of Europe. This panel, attached to the court, acts as a sort of combination screening board, conciliation commission, and attorney-general's office.

It examines the complaint and weeds out the obviously crank cases or those without foundation.

Auto Year in Review

After Slow Start the Car Industry Had Better Sales

By BEN PHILEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Throughout 1961 the auto industry clung to the theory that things had to get better—and they did.

In February, sales were the lowest for the month since the Korean War. In October and early November sales were at record highs for the period.

Layoffs and shot work weeks were the rule in the first part of the year. Added manpower and overtime kept assembly lines humming in the closing months.

The manufacturers were talking in glowing terms of 1962 prospects with optimistic forecasts calling for sales of 7 1/4 million cars, or about the equal of record 1955.

With the signing of three-year union contracts, labor peace seemed assured. One of the rare dark spots on the horizon was the possibility of a steel strike after June 30.

Ford and General Motors were closed two weeks by strikes prior to final agreements with the United Auto Workers Union. Despite this, production of 1962 model cars between the model changeover dates in August and Dec. 31 was expected to hit a record 2.3 million.

Total production for the calendar year of roughly 5.5 million cars will be about 12 million under the 1960 figure. During the 1961 model year 5,408,625 cars were built.

This was the year of the bucket seat. Following the spectacular success of the Corvair Monza, every manufacturer introduced one or more bucket seat models, mostly in the compact car lines.

Compacts accounted for about 35 per cent of all sales. A new size classification emerged with the 1962 model year—the intermediate. Plymouth and Dodge chopped their size and fitted into this category where they were joined by two new Ford products, the Ford Fairlane and Mercury Meteor.

Six-cylinder engines continued to increase in popularity, being fitted into 45.4 per cent of all 1961 models. This compared with 43.4 per cent in 1960 and only 28 per cent of the 1959 models.

Chevrolet was the biggest-selling standard car by a wide margin over Ford while the Ford Falcon was the No. 1 selling compact. For the third straight year average prices of new cars remained unchanged.

The wars of the ranch kings who built an empire a thousand miles beyond the law, "CATTLE EMPIRE," stars Joel McCrea Judah lives again... hurling his challenge across the plains of Jerusalem... sealing the walled city of Rabbah... routing the hosts of Philistines! Gregory Peck and Susan Hayward heads the all-star cast of "DAVID AND BATHSHEBA." Both color-features start tonight at the 50 DRIVE-IN THEATRE.

Appeals to JFK For Another 'Emancipation'

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. has appealed to President Kennedy for a "second emancipation proclamation" to end segregation.

The Negro integration leader made his plea Thursday night after New Orleans officials canceled a Municipal Auditorium mass meeting he was to have addressed.

"You may cancel a meeting," King said, "but you can't cancel the date New Orleans and the South has with destiny. You can't cancel our determination the Negro has to be free in this day and age."

King, who said he would go today to the scene of mass Negro arrests in Albany, Ga., labeled charges he was an agitator as "trumped-up."

Thursday night's meeting was switched to a church, where about 1,000 persons gave King a standing ovation.

"The hour has come for the President of the United States to issue an executive order declaring segregation unconstitutional on the basis of the 14th Amendment," said King.

Negroes have been freed only of "physical" slavery, he said. King urged President Kennedy to complete the job with a second emancipation proclamation.

Aspirin Creates Headache

By Maj. Leonard Berlow

Doctors at the Base Hospital call it a miracle.

It happened last Thursday when 14-month-old Dennis Clark and his two-year-old sister, Sheila, found a bottle of aspirin.

Dennis, being the youngest, naturally thought he should get the biggest share — and that was just about 25.

Upon arrival at the hospital, both children underwent stomach pumping. This is effective in getting out that portion of aspirin which hasn't already been absorbed into the blood stream. But anyone knows from watching those TV commercials how fast those flakes dissolve and start going to work.

It was necessary to insert a needle in a vein at the top of Dennis's head and inject about one-half gallon of medicinal fluid.

This assisted in flushing out the aspirin in his system. The grave part of aspirin poisoning is that it cripples the kidneys.

Anxious parents, A2C and Mrs. Leon Clark, stayed with their children round the clock until Monday when the welcome word came that Dennis was out of danger.

Sheila was discharged the second day.

Every year thousands of children die as a result of aspirin poisoning. Parents are urged to keep all drugs out of the reach of children. The most innocent looking drugs are potential killers.

Take aspirin for instance!

'Gunsmoke' Gang Sells Interests

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — You've got to say one thing for the "Gunsmoke" gang: They stay in character.

Every viewer of the Saturday night Western knows this. I realized it anew when I called on the talented troupe to hear about their windfall.

It had been reported that Dennis Weaver, Amanda Blake and Milburn Stone had sold out their interests in "Gunsmoke" for a million dollars apiece. James Arness had previously made his own deal with CBS, also for a fabulous amount.

The trio confirmed the transaction when I visited their Dodge City diggings. They reacted in character: Chester was cheerful, Doc was grumpy and Kitty was flighty.

Kitty was in the makeup department, awaiting her call to the Long Branch saloon. I asked her if the million-dollar figure was true.

"I guess so," she said airily. "At least that's what my business manager tells me. It doesn't make much difference to my way of life. He just keeps sending me my allowance, and I just keep spending it."

Doc finished a scene in the Dodge City jail and vigorously confirmed the news.

"I didn't want to sell, but CBS made me pass a good offer that I couldn't push it up," he grumbled. "I had a good contract. Well, I had to. I had seen myself on TV every night in old movies, and I wasn't getting a dime for it."

As for Chester, he was bright and cheery, partly because of his financial gain, partly because of his new adventure. He is finishing out his last year on the show. His co-stars have four years to go. Doc took a dim view of his sidekick's departure.

"A show like this one depends on all its elements for success," he said darkly. "The loss of Chester might well prove fatal."

Progress Alliance Program May Face Significant Test

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — President Kennedy's weekend visit to Venezuela and Colombia may turn out to be a significant test for his Alliance for Progress.

If the trip is a notable success, prospects for the alliance will seem brighter. The prospects evidently need brightening. Outside the United States the alliance often is regarded, even by its friends, as a far from hopeful attempt to wipe out Latin America's past through voluntary reforms overnight.

The Kennedy trip is limited to the two South American nations whose governments are among the best friends of the United States. He is to confer with perhaps the most courageous of all the democratic leaders in Latin America: Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela and Alberto Lleras Camargo of Colombia.

Both men are butts of violent Communist Castroist attack. Both have broken diplomatic relations with Havana. Both are betting they can hold off an explosion on the left. Each is staking his future on the hope that the Alliance for Progress will become a positive reality.

These are men Fidel Castro repeatedly taunts with names like miserable traitor, imperialist lackey, and far worse. It seems safe to say that in all Latin America, Castro hates no men more.

In Colombia, the President will attend a ceremony inaugurating a program to be carried out with significant U.S. financial participation: The construction of 13,000 houses in Bogota for the labor and middle classes and the construction of 22,000 classrooms.

These are the sort of projects Latin Americans understand and welcome. Such programs can have a heavy impact among the young Latin Americans, the students and intellectuals who cause much of the ferment and who are captivated by the idea of

Store Sales Are Down 7 Per Cent

ST. LOUIS — Department store sales in the 8th Federal Reserve District for the week ended Dec. 9 were seven per cent lower than during the comparable week last year, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported today. All reporting points in the district registered declines, topped by a whopping 11 per cent drop in Memphis. St. Louis sales were 9 per cent lower and Little Rock reported a 7 per cent drop. Louisville was down 2 per cent. District sales for the last four weeks were 1 per cent below the comparable month of last year.

Traffic Island Called Home By Small Black Dog

SALMON, Idaho (AP)—About a month ago, a little black dog—owners and ancestry unknown—took up residence on a mid-street traffic island in the center of town.

He has spent most of his waking hours and all of his sleeping hours on that small, unsheltered island. Temperatures as low as 14 below zero haven't made him move.

Employees of a nearby grocery take him food. He retreats when they approach but always returns for the food.

He never barks at passing automobiles. Once in a while he looks up expectantly, as though hoping for loved ones to pick him up.

If the loved ones should return before Christmas, they'll find him under a lighted Christmas tree which has been erected on the island—sleeping by night, just watching by day.

Washington Becomes Home
For Legislature Veterans

WASHINGTON (AP)—It happens almost every day in Congress.

A legislator, seemingly bursting with excitement, finally gets the attention of the presiding officer. Then, grandly ignoring the problems of the world, he breaks into hymns of praise for the district or state he represents.

Oh, the grass is greener, the folks are folkier, the corn is cornier, 'way back home.

At last the voters, possibly convinced that any man who loves home so much should spend more time there, kick him out of office. Does our hero rush madly back to the spot he so loudly pined for? He may—but surprisingly often he does not.

What Las Vegas is to a gambling man, Washington is to a politician.

For the nation's capital is like ivy, or, in some cases, barnacles. It tends to grow on one.

Often those who stay here for years find themselves so pleasantly encumbered—with job opportunities, with friends, with love of the excitement and power this place generates—they can't, or won't, go home again.

A fine example of this came during the casting of the motion picture, "Advise and Consent."

The director, struggling to fill two senatorial roles, had an inspiration: Why not hire men who had been genuine senators?

And, for one role, why not hire the most senatorial-looking, senatorial-acting senator of all time, Henry Fountain Ashurst?

So, at 87, Ashurst was at last paid strictly for his acting, although, as is true with many politicians, he has been an actor, and a superb one, all his life.

Ashurst's vocabulary was so extensive and so rocco that he called himself "Five Syllable Henry." "I could throw 56-pound words clear across the Grand Canyon," Five Syllable Henry said.

As soon as Arizona became a state, in 1912, its admiring voters sent Ashurst to the Senate and in that windswept old cavern he served for 29 years, with grace, wit and courage.

After the voters booted him out in 1941, Ashurst spent a couple of years on the Board of Immigration Appeals and then retired. He's still here, almost a half-century since he banded in from Arizona.

This long has been his home; here he has scored his greatest triumphs.

Ashurst took pride in his inconsistency. On one issue that came before the Senate four times, he voted yes twice and no twice.

His explanation is a political classic:

"My faults are obvious. But there never has been superadded to these vices of mine the withering, embalming vice of consistency. Whoever in the public service is handcuffed and shackled by the vice of consistency will be a man not free to act as various questions come before him from time to time. He will be a statesman locked in a prison house the keys to which are in the keeping of days and events that are dead."

"Never have I let what I said yesterday bind me today. No senator can change his mind quicker than I."

For the other senatorial role in "Advise and Consent," Guy M. Gillette of Cherokee, Iowa, was chosen.

A comparative youngster of 82, Gillette never had Ashurst's incomparable flair, but in an informal poll 20 years ago he was picked as the capitol's best dressed man.

A Democrat in normally Republican Iowa, Gillette was elected to the House in 1932, the Senate in 1936, was beaten in 1944, named chairman of the Surplus Property Board by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, elected again to the Senate in 1948, defeated again 1954.

Shortly before the movie-makers hired him, he was counsel for a judiciary subcommittee in the Senate.

Another oldtimer is Tom Connally of Texas who, in 1952, at the age of 74 and after 24 years as a senator, decided not to run again.
